Early Today On Route 7

Car Flips, Man Escapes

A Wellsville man escaped serious injury, but was cited on two charges after his car hit the rear of a tractor-trailer rig and then flipped over on its top at 6:30 a.m. today on Route 7, near the intersection of Route 213 at Yellow Creek below Wellsville. A short time later another accident occurred at the scene.

The Wintersville State Highway Patrol said a northbound car driven by Phelman Taylor, 38, of 1422 Commerce St. hit the left rear of the tractor-trailer rig operated by Leroy Jack Sullivan, 25, of Marietta.

Taylor's car then flipped over on its top. It was demolished. Taylor apparently fell asleep at the wheel, the patrol reported. He was checked at City Hospital for possible rib injuries.

Taylor was cited for driving without an operator's license and unsafe operation.

Wellsville police went to the scene of the accident to direct traffic until the patrol arrived. Shortly after they arrived, another accident occurred.

Edward J. Jarvis, 66, of Irondale R.D. 1, headed north in a 1964 pickup truck, slowed for the earlier accident. He was being followed by a car driven by Patricia A. Dogan of Talmadge, who pulled out to pass the pickup. The woman's car then hit the wrecked car and swerved and also struck the pickup truck, officers said. Damage was moderate.

U.S. Planes Rain Bombs On Red Isle

Blast Antiaircraft Battery, Buildings And Radar Tower

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, (AP) — U.S. war planes dumped 12 tons of bombs today on Hon Nieu Island 130 miles north of the 17th Parallel destroying an antiaircraft battery, two buildings and a radar tower, a U.S. military spokesman said.

The strike force of six Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs and supporting jets ran into heavy ground fire during the 20-minute attack, the spokesman said. But all returned safely.

Earlier U.S. Navy planes hit bridges and barges about 160 miles south of Hanoi.

Eight aircraft from the carrier Oriscany severely damaged a wooden highway bridge and a barge and then struck at two highway bridges under construction, damaging them slightly.

Military spokesmen said the planes were over the target area for about 35 minutes and dropped almost three tons of bombs. They also used their rockets and cannons. All the aircraft returned safely to the carrier, the spokesman said.

Viet Cong attacks spread through the northernmost 1st Army Corps today amid fears that a major Communist offensive aimed at cutting that region in two may start soon.

A U.S. Army officer was killed and an estimated 30 government troops were slain or wounded in an attack three miles east of the Quang Tri Province capital during the night. Quang Tri, South Viet Nam's northernmost province, borders on North Viet Nam.

To Chart Hazards Along Path To Moon

U.S. Orbits Laboratory To Scout Space Secrets

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — An interplanetary laboratory named Imp 3 raced deep into space today to scout scientific secrets and chart radiation hazards along the astronauts' pathway to the moon.

The 130-pound "flying physics lab" shot away from Cape Kennedy at 7 a.m. atop a towering Delta rocket. The booster's three stages fired with drill-like precision and hurled the satellite into space at more than 23,000 miles an hour.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced more than two hours after launching that Imp 3 was in orbit and gave it the official designation of Explorer 28.

The payload was aimed at a great elliptical course intended to take it 130,000 miles from earth before it swings back as close as 120 miles at the low point of its four-day orbit. NASA said it might require several days to determine exact orbital figures.

Although this distance is only halfway to the moon, Imp 3's sensitive instruments were to peer millions of miles into space to gather information.

The only difficulty appeared to be that the payload angle to the sun was slightly off. Officials said this could affect data from some of the radiation experiments but did not consider the problem serious.

Imp 3, which stands for Interplanetary Monitoring Platform, is the third of seven similar satellites planned to gather radiation and magnetic field data in support of the U.S. Apollo project to land men on the moon in this decade.

A major assignment of the Imp series is to determine if satellite instruments can be used to predict when great flares will erupt on the sun's surface, dumping clouds of cosmic rays with their dangerous highly charged protons into space.

Scientists would like to develop a foolproof flare forecasting capability before 1969 when the first Apollo teams are scheduled to rocket toward the moon. The 11-year sun cycle will be at a peak of flare activity that year.

Without a reliable prediction system, manned lunar shots might have to be postponed to a calmer sun period. The space agency's Goddard Space Flight Center intends to map an entire 11-year solar cycle with the Imp series, sending two of the payloads into orbit around the moon.

The satellite was expected to provide new data on how the earth's magnetic field extends into space and is distorted by the sun's influence.

Dramatic Step Added For Gemini

White In 'Floating' Will Use Gun To Approach Rocket

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — When astronaut Edward H. White II floats away from the Gemini 4 spacecraft, he will use a spacegun to try to move within 20 feet of an orbiting, spent rocket. It will be the world's first rendezvous in space.

The dramatic additions to the flight plan of the Gemini 4 — following quickly the announcement that White will leave his craft — were announced Friday by a panel of space agency officials.

"If we are successful," said Dr. George E. Mueller, acting director of the Gemini program, "we will have done something the Russians have not tried, although I am sure they have the capability."

At Pad 19 in the Cape Kennedy complex, technicians unseated the Gemini spacecraft from its perch on the nose of a nine-story-tall Titan 2 rocket, replaced a faulty battery, and remated the two.

The battery must be checked out, but officials said that barring further difficulty, Gemini 4 would lift off on time next Thursday morning.

Space buddies White and James A. McDivitt, both Air Force majors, planned to run through highlights of their scheduled four-day mission today.

After separation of the spacecraft from the second-stage booster, six minutes after launch, command pilot McDivitt will hold a tight formation with the spent rocket, trailing it by about 300 feet.

During first orbit, the astronauts will depressurize the cabin while pressurizing their space suits. McDivitt will maneuver the 7,600-pound space-

In Separate Mishaps

Two Pedestrians Struck By Cars

Two pedestrians were injured, one seriously, when struck by cars in separate accidents Friday night and early today. One was the victim of a hit - skip driver.

Floyd E. Freeze, 65, of 1024 Commerce St., Wellsville, was in "critical" condition today at Ohio Valley Hospital, Steubenville, with injuries suffered when hit by a car operated by Edward T. Sikora, 36, of Pulaski, Pa., R. D. 1 Friday night at 9:45 on Route 7 at Stratton.

The Wintersville State Highway Patrol said the mishap occurred while Freeze was walking on the highway, heading north.

Officers said a second car which was involved was headed south in the northbound lane, for some unexplained reason.

Freeze walked out from behind the other car as it passed him and stepped into the path of the Sikora vehicle, officers said.

New York's Mayor Hints He May Quit

Disclosure Seen By Some As Bid For Dissident Group

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner says he is seriously considering not running for an unprecedented fourth term next November because of personal reasons. A withdrawal likely would have national political repercussions.

The disclosure by the Democratic mayor Friday night, however, was seen by some as a move to rally dissident or indifferent Democrats around him, and that he had no intention of pulling out.

The Brooklyn Democratic organization is bitterly divided over the county leadership of Assemblyman Stanley Steingut, whom Wagner has been trying to depose. Political observers said if Wagner pulled out, it would greatly aid Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in gaining control of the Democratic party in New York.

"I find I can't spend as much time as a father should with his boys," he said, referring to his two sons, Robert Jr., 21, and Duncan, 18. He said he also was

Race Mississippi Clock

Negroes March For Vote Signup

BRANDON, Miss. (AP) — Marching Negroes get off with a sunrise start today for a race against the clock to bring their 14-mile, two-day rural trek to the voter registrar's office before noon closing time.

A Congress of Racial Equality worker supervising the march said it is an example of things to come in back-country Mississippi this summer.

Encircled by highway patrol and Rankin County deputies, the 150 marchers spent the night in two large tents thrown up in a pasture six miles from the county seat in Brandon.

Men slept in one tent and women in the other. The few whites were civil rights workers from elsewhere.

The marchers had planned to head down black-topped Mississippi 471 at 6 a.m., not waiting for James Farmer, national director of CORE. Farmer was to have joined the final leg at noon.

The mission is to register Negroes in this central Mississippi county near Jackson, the state capital. A Justice Department suit filed recently said 94 of 6,944 voting age Negroes were registered.

The marchers also planned to present a petition of grievances to county officials and protest seating of Mississippi's five congressmen, whose offices have been challenged by the Mississippi Freedom Democratic party.

Across the border in Louisiana, civil rights pickets resumed their slow pace outside stores in Bogalusa where Negroes are asking equal job opportunities. A white man and a Negro picket were arrested Friday after they scuffled briefly.

In other racial developments:

Demonstrators marched around the county court house in Crawfordville, Ga., protesting the school board's decision not to renew yearly contracts of six Negro teachers who had participated in a vote drive.

Chicago civil rights groups called for a week-long public boycott by 600,000 pupils to protest rehiring of School Supt. Benjamin C. Willis. Under Willis, most pupils attend schools closest to their homes. Negroes claim this fosters de facto segregation.

The Ku Klux Klan held its first major northern rally in recent years in a wooded area near Lebanon, Ohio. It was sparsely attended.

The added security came after Friday's only incident. A white man pointed a pistol at a Negro marcher, Jimmy Phipps, 16, following a verbal exchange. The episode came after another Negro youth yelled "freedom" at the man's car.

The highway patrol, which had been guarding the column's van and rear, then began stopping each approaching car and checking tags and occupants.

Brazilian Due As Leader Of Peace Force

U.S. Will Retain Tactical Control In Dominican Crisis

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—The inter-American peace force in the Dominican Republic gets a Brazilian commander today but the United States has made it clear it will retain tactical control.

Gen. Hugo Panasco Alvim arrives today to become chief of the 21,000 U.S. troops, 1,170 Brazilian soldiers, 21 Costa Ricans, 250 Hondurans and 159 Nicaraguans.

But Lt. Gen. Bruce Palmer, commander of U.S. forces here, said Friday he expects to retain control over which troops to use and how to use them in carrying out their mission for the Organization of American States.

Palmer said in an interview he will receive instructions from Alvim or from Jose A. Mora, OAS secretary-general, who will work with the inter-American Defense Board in Washington.

"If the OAS and the U.S. government get into a policy conflict, I would have to follow the guidance of my government," Palmer said. "I wear two hats."

Palmer said the peace-keeping force could eventually be reduced to 6,000 men—"assuming that both sides are serious about negotiating a peace settlement and maintaining the cease-fire now in effect."

Holiday Gets An Early Start In Tri-State

Thousands were taking to the highways and East Liverpool and area communities are making final plans for honoring the war dead as the three-day Memorial Day holiday got under way today for many.

Parks and other vacation spots are expected to be crowded over the weekend despite the fact that the weather forecast for today and tomorrow holds little indication of the brilliant sunshine that goes so well with the occasion.

The weatherman says there's even a possibility of light frost tonight, with showers and little change in temperature Sunday.

The traditional tributes to those who have given their lives in line of duty are scheduled Monday, with parades and solemn cemetery rites featuring the programs.

The observance here will be marked by a parade, scheduled to begin at 11 a.m., and dedication of the new memorial in front of City Hall, with Rep. Wayne L. Hays speaking. The dedicatory program is scheduled to start about 15 minutes after the end of the parade.

City police have joined with those in neighboring communities and the district's highway patrol and state police barracks in appealing for safety on the highways in an effort to cut down the deadly traffic toll that generally results from an extended holiday period.

All 8 Killed In Crash Of Private Plane

The craft hit in a gully at 7:03 a.m., six minutes after taking off from Orange County Airport at nearby Costa Mesa, police said.

Lt. Ernest Laurin said the plane was registered to Richard G. Kennedy, Pasadena, Calif.

There were no survivors and no immediate indication of the victim's identities or destination, Laurin said.

Bid Of $302,951 Set For Highlandtown Dam

Kane Brothers Construction Co. of Youngstown filed the apparent low bid of $302,951 Friday with the Ohio Department of Natural Resources at Columbus for consturction of an eathen fill dam that will create a 170-acre lake in the Highlandtown Wildlife Area.

The Mahoning firm's offer was more than $85,000 under the $387,000 estimate on the cost of the project made in advance by state engineers. Five other firms submitted bids.

State Rep. Clarence L. Wetzel of Columbiana County, who attended the bid opening, said the contract will be signed in about three weeks. The interim will be required to obtain official release of the funds from the State Controlling Board, but this is considered a mere formality because the money already is available, he explained.

The Controlling Board is comprised of representatives of Gov. James Rhodes, Atty. Gen. William Saxbe, Auditor Chester Goble, the chairman of the State Senate finance committee and the chairman of the House finance committee.

Construction of the dam is expected to require a year. Ground will be broken this summer.

The Ohio Wildlife Division has aquired 1,975 acres of ground in the area since 1956 for public hunting and fishing. A total of $156,000 was spent in the 1957-58 biennium and $175,000 more was spent in 1963-64.

Wetzel said approval of the state bond issue as Issue No. 1 at the primaries May 4 assures that $130,000 more will be available in the biennium starting July 1 to drill wells, build toilet facilities, construct parking areas, erect boat docks and build roads.

The lake and wildlife area are off Route 39 between Wellsville and Salineville at the village of Highlandtown. The dam for the lake will be west of what now is known as Chettle's Lake on Little Yellow Creek.

Cigarette Is Blamed For Fire On Elm St.

A lighted cigarette that fell onto a studio couch was blamed for a fire early this morning which damaged the home of Lawrence C. Miller, 509 Elm St.

Firemen spent approximately half an hour fighting the flames which had spread to a door and curtains when the department arrived after receiving the alarm at 1:12 a. m.

Miller and two children, 7 and 8, were in bed, but were awakened by the smoke. Mrs. Miller had gone to bed about two hours earlier.

One report indicated that Miller had attempted to shove the studio couch outside the duplex but it unfolded at the doorway and he was unable to take it outside.

Hearing Set Tuesday In Burglary Charge

LISBON — Three Akron men, charged with the burglary of Chuck's Pure Oil Service Station at Bayard early Thursday morning, had their preliminary hearing continued Friday until Tuesday by County Judge J. L. MacDonald to allow them time to obtain counsel.

Henry A. Oliver, 27, Henry Lee Cooper, 42, and George Keys, 41, were apprehended early Thursday morning near North Canton on information furnished by a Bayard woman, who saw them drive away from her husband's service station.

The men made bond of $1,000 each and were turned over to Stark County authorities for questioning on the burglary of a service station west of Minerva on Route 30 the same morning.

The men also admitted a burglary at Wilson's Golden Dawn Store, 1719 Pennsylvania Ave., East Liverpool, where approximately $340 in cigarettes was taken.

Two Are Held For Burglary At Wellsville

Two are being held in the Columbiana County Jail at Lisbon on charges of breaking and entering a Wellsville soft drink firm.

Charles Edward Weyend, 21, of Fredericktown Rd. and Roy Wilbur Davis, 18, of 1057 Elmwood Ave. were taken into custody Friday morning at 2 by Wellsville Patrolman Frank Daniels, who became suspicious of their actions when he saw them in a pickup truck.

Daniels did not know of the burglary of the Rosenberger Beverage Co. when he halted the two. He spotted them in the pickup truck at 2nd and Lisbon Sts. Daniels said the driver, Weyend, seemed reluctant to pull out onto the high-

Car Flips, Man Escapes

A Wellsville man escaped serious injury, but was cited on two charges after his car hit the rear of a tractor-trailer rig and then flipped over on its top at 6:30 a.m. today on Route 7, near the intersection of Route 213 at Yellow Creek below Wellsville. To Chart Hazards Along Path To Moon

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — An interplanetary laboratory named Imp 3 raced deep into space today to scout scientific secrets and chart radiation hazards along the astronauts' pathway to the moon.

The 130-pound "flying physics lab" shot away from Cape Kennedy at 7 a.m. atop a towering Delta rocket. The booster's three stages fired with drill-like precision and hurled the satellite into space at more than 23,000 miles an hour.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced more than two hours after launching that Imp 3 was in orbit and gave it the official designation of Explorer 28.

The payload was aimed at a great elliptical course intended to take it 130,000 miles from earth before it swings back as close as 120 miles at the low point of its four-day orbit. NASA said it might require several days to determine exact orbital figures.

Although this distance is only halfway to the moon, Imp 3's sensitive instruments were to peer millions of miles into space to gather information.

The only difficulty appeared to be that the payload angle to the sun was slightly off. Officials said this could affect data from some of the radiation experiments but did not consider the problem serious.

Imp 3, which stands for Interplanetary Monitoring Platform, is the third of seven similar satellites planned to gather radiation and magnetic field data in support of the U.S. Apollo project to land men on the moon in this decade.

A major assignment of the Imp series is to determine if satellite instruments can be used to predict when great flares will erupt on the sun's surface, dumping clouds of cosmic rays with their dangerous highly charged protons into space.

The satellite was expected to provide new data on how the earth's magnetic field extends into space and is distorted by the sun's influence.

White In 'Floating' Will Use Gun To Approach Rocket

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — When astronaut Edward H. White II floats away from the Gemini 4 spacecraft, he will use a spacegun to try to move within 20 feet of an orbiting, spent rocket. It will be the world's first rendezvous in space.

The dramatic additions to the flight plan of the Gemini 4 — following quickly the announcement that White will leave his craft — were announced Friday by a panel of space agency officials.

"If we are successful," said Dr. George E. Mueller, acting director of the Gemini program, "we will have done something the Russians have not tried, although I am sure they have the capability."

At Pad 19 in the Cape Kennedy complex, technicians unseated the Gemini spacecraft from its perch on the nose of a nine-story-tall Titan 2 rocket, replaced a faulty battery, and remated the two.

The battery must be checked out, but officials said that barring further difficulty, Gemini 4 would lift off on time next Thursday morning.

Space buddies White and James A. McDivitt, both Air Force majors, planned to run through highlights of their scheduled four-day mission today.

After separation of the spacecraft from the second-stage booster, six minutes after launch, command pilot McDivitt will hold a tight formation with the spent rocket, trailing it by about 300 feet.

During first orbit, the astronauts will depressurize the cabin while pressurizing their space suits. McDivitt will maneuver the 7,600-pound space-

Race Mississippi Clock

Negroes March For Vote Signup

BRANDON, Miss. (AP) — Marching Negroes get off with a sunrise start today for a race against the clock to bring their 14-mile, two-day rural trek to the voter registrar's office before noon closing time.

A Congress of Racial Equality worker supervising the march said it is an example of things to come in back-country Mississippi this summer.

Encircled by highway patrol and Rankin County deputies, the 150 marchers spent the night in two large tents thrown up in a pasture six miles from the county seat in Brandon.

Men slept in one tent and women in the other. The few whites were civil rights workers from elsewhere.

The marchers had planned to head down black-topped Mississippi 471 at 6 a.m., not waiting for James Farmer, national director of CORE. Farmer was to have joined the final leg at noon.

The mission is to register Negroes in this central Mississippi county near Jackson, the state capital. A Justice Department suit filed recently said 94 of 6,944 voting age Negroes were registered.

The marchers also planned to present a petition of grievances to county officials and protest seating of Mississippi's five congressmen, whose offices have been challenged by the Mississippi Freedom Democratic party.

Across the border in Louisiana, civil rights pickets resumed their slow pace outside stores in Bogalusa where Negroes are asking equal job opportunities. A white man and a Negro picket were arrested Friday after they scuffled briefly.

In other racial developments:

Demonstrators marched around the county court house in Crawfordville, Ga., protesting the school board's decision not to renew yearly contracts of six Negro teachers who had participated in a vote drive.

Chicago civil rights groups called for a week-long public boycott by 600,000 pupils to protest rehiring of School Supt. Benjamin C. Willis. Under Willis, most pupils attend schools closest to their homes. Negroes claim this fosters de facto segregation.

The Ku Klux Klan held its first major northern rally in recent years in a wooded area near Lebanon, Ohio. It was sparsely attended.

The added security came after Friday's only incident. A white man pointed a pistol at a Negro marcher, Jimmy Phipps, 16, following a verbal exchange. The episode came after another Negro youth yelled "freedom" at the man's car.

The highway patrol, which had been guarding the column's van and rear, then began stopping each approaching car and checking tags and occupants.

Holiday Gets An Early Start In Tri-State

Thousands were taking to the highways and East Liverpool and area communities are making final plans for honoring the war dead as the three-day Memorial Day holiday got under way today for many.

Parks and other vacation spots are expected to be crowded over the weekend despite the fact that the weather forecast for today and tomorrow holds little indication of the brilliant sunshine that goes so well with the occasion.

The weatherman says there's even a possibility of light frost tonight, with showers and little change in temperature Sunday.

The traditional tributes to those who have given their lives in line of duty are scheduled Monday, with parades and solemn cemetery rites featuring the programs.

The observance here will be marked by a parade, scheduled to begin at 11 a.m., and dedication of the new memorial in front of City Hall, with Rep. Wayne L. Hays speaking. The dedicatory program is scheduled to start about 15 minutes after the end of the parade.

City police have joined with those in neighboring communities and the district's highway patrol and state police barracks in appealing for safety on the highways in an effort to cut down the deadly traffic toll that generally results from an extended holiday period.

Brazilian Due As Leader Of Peace Force

U.S. Will Retain Tactical Control In Dominican Crisis

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—The inter-American peace force in the Dominican Republic gets a Brazilian commander today but the United States has made it clear it will retain tactical control.

Gen. Hugo Panasco Alvim arrives today to become chief of the 21,000 U.S. troops, 1,170 Brazilian soldiers, 21 Costa Ricans, 250 Hondurans and 159 Nicaraguans.

But Lt. Gen. Bruce Palmer, commander of U.S. forces here, said Friday he expects to retain control over which troops to use and how to use them in carrying out their mission for the Organization of American States.

Palmer said in an interview he will receive instructions from Alvim or from Jose A. Mora, OAS secretary-general, who will work with the inter-American Defense Board in Washington.

"If the OAS and the U.S. government get into a policy conflict, I would have to follow the guidance of my government," Palmer said. "I wear two hats."

Palmer said the peace-keeping force could eventually be reduced to 6,000 men—"assuming that both sides are serious about negotiating a peace settlement and maintaining the cease-fire now in effect."

considering how much his health might be strained by four more years. He said he would announce his decision "in a week or two."

The mayoral race took on added national significance May 13 with the entry of Rep. John V. Lindsay, East Side Manhattan Republican considered by some as possible presidential material. Lindsay, a proven vote getter in a predominantly Democratic district, viewed his entry at the time as a step toward the revival of the Republican party.

Robert Price, Lindsay's campaign manager, said the congressman would have no immediate comment.

It was learned that the Lindsay camp feels — at least right now — that Wagner has no intention of pulling out.

The mayor emphasized that he had been considering not running long before Lindsay threw his hat into the ring. There was some speculation Wagner might be concerned about losing to Lindsay, even though he was favored because of a huge Democratic registration margin.

It had been suggested by some Democrats that another well-known Democrat might have a better chance than Wagner of beating the popular Lindsay. Their reasoning is that dissident reform, independent and regular Democrats would close ranks behind another candidate rather than support Lindsay.

Should Wagner pull out of the mayoral race, the man considered most likely to replace him as a candidate is Paul R. Screvane, City Council president.

It had been virtually taken for granted that Wagner would run since last Feb. 1 when he said in an interview that he "most likely" would seek a fourth term.

Wagner, who recently was pronounced fit and healthy by his doctors, said he felt that he must be a father and a mother to his sons since the death of his wife.

Freeze's injuries are not known, but he suffered compound fractures of the left arm and leg and abrasions and contusions over the entire body.

A Hammondsville man, the apparent victim of a hit-skip accident in Wellsville early today, was admitted to Osteopathic Hospital with a fractured leg.

Wellsville police said Ross Gough, 43, of Hammondsville R. D. 1 apparently was struck down by a car while walking along Main St. at 16th St.

Gough told authorities he does not know what happened.

A resident notified police about 12:20 that a man was lying in the street and apparently was injured.

Police said his right leg was fractured above the ankle.

Officers traced the blood and found traces of tire marks, indicating the car skidded on the blacktop. The driver did not halt. Police said Gough often walks along the street to hitchhike.

Broken Main Repairs Speeded At Chester

Street crews worked this morning to complete repairs to a broken water main at 2nd St. and Virginia Ave., Chester.

The broken line did not affect water service and was not connected with cleaning operations being conducted on the 10-inch main from the reservoir to 9th St.

The City Hall received several calls during the night regarding the temporary interruption of service resulting from the cleaning operations, although previous announcements had been made regarding the shut-off.

Cleaning will continue on the 10-inch water main tonight.

The game of golf was fostered in Scotland. In 1547, however, the Scottish Parliament, disturbed because football and golf had lured young Scots from the more soldierly exercise of archery, passed an ordinance that "futeball and golf be utterly cryit doun and nocht usit." James I and Charles I of the royal line of Stuarts were golf enthusiasts, whereby the game came to be known as "the royal and ancient game of golf."

The Viet Cong attacks ranged from the North Vietnamese border to Quan Ngai Province, 180 miles to the south. More than 10 hard-core Viet Cong battalions were reported in Quang Nam and Quan Tin Province on the southern perimeter of the region.

Highway 1, the major north-south artery, was cut on both sides of Tam Ky, the capital of Quang Tin Province, which is 45 miles south of the Da Nang air base. More than seven Viet Cong battalions were reported within striking distance of Tam Ky.

Government forces in Quang Tri Province, 50 miles north of Da Nang, killed 23 Viet Cong and captured 18 in an operation which started Friday and is still continuing. To the south, in Quang Ngai, a Special Forces operation reported an estimated 40 Viet Cong were killed by air strikes Friday, U.S. military spokesmen said.

Two of nine Americans killed Friday in the collision of two helicopters at Bien Hoa air base have been identified.

One was William Oakley, 18, of Waterbury, Conn., whose mother said she was notified of her son's death by the Defense Department. The other was Myron M. Foutz, 33, a native of Mercersburg, Pa. He was a former broadcaster for station WHP and WHP-TV in Harrisburg, Pa.

North Viet Nam today released a picture of a man identified as U.S. Navy Lt. Philip Neil Butler of Black Well, Okla.

Radio Hanoi announced Thursday that Butler, 26, was captured April 24 in Nghe An Province after his plane was shot down April 20.

The State Department announced that U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor will return to Washington Sunday for consultations with President Johnson and other top officials.

Freeze's injuries are not known, but he suffered compound fractures of the left arm and leg and abrasions and contusions over the entire body.

A Hammondsville man, the apparent victim of a hit-skip accident in Wellsville early today, was admitted to Osteopathic Hospital with a fractured leg.

Wellsville police said Ross Gough, 43, of Hammondsville R. D. 1 apparently was struck down by a car while walking along Main St. at 16th St.

Gough told authorities he does not know what happened.

A resident notified police about 12:20 that a man was lying in the street and apparently was injured.

Police said his right leg was fractured above the ankle.

Officers traced the blood and found traces of tire marks, indicating the car skidded on the blacktop. The driver did not halt. Police said Gough often walks along the street to hitchhike.

Broken Main Repairs Speeded At Chester

Street crews worked this morning to complete repairs to a broken water main at 2nd St. and Virginia Ave., Chester.

The broken line did not affect water service and was not connected with cleaning operations being conducted on the 10-inch main from the reservoir to 9th St.

The City Hall received several calls during the night regarding the temporary interruption of service resulting from the cleaning operations, although previous announcements had been made regarding the shut-off.

Cleaning will continue on the 10-inch water main tonight.

The game of golf was fostered in Scotland. In 1547, however, the Scottish Parliament, disturbed because football and golf had lured young Scots from the more soldierly exercise of archery, passed an ordinance that "futeball and golf be utterly cryit doun and nocht usit." James I and Charles I of the royal line of Stuarts were golf enthusiasts, whereby the game came to be known as "the royal and ancient game of golf."

The Viet Cong attacks ranged from the North Vietnamese border to Quan Ngai Province, 180 miles to the south. More than 10 hard-core Viet Cong battalions were reported in Quang Nam and Quan Tin Province on the southern perimeter of the region.

Highway 1, the major north-south artery, was cut on both sides of Tam Ky, the capital of Quang Tin Province, which is 45 miles south of the Da Nang air base. More than seven Viet Cong battalions were reported within striking distance of Tam Ky.

Government forces in Quang Tri Province, 50 miles north of Da Nang, killed 23 Viet Cong and captured 18 in an operation which started Friday and is still continuing. To the south, in Quang Ngai, a Special Forces operation reported an estimated 40 Viet Cong were killed by air strikes Friday, U.S. military spokesmen said.

Two of nine Americans killed Friday in the collision of two helicopters at Bien Hoa air base have been identified.

One was William Oakley, 18, of Waterbury, Conn., whose mother said she was notified of her son's death by the Defense Department. The other was Myron M. Foutz, 33, a native of Mercersburg, Pa. He was a former broadcaster for station WHP and WHP-TV in Harrisburg, Pa.

North Viet Nam today released a picture of a man identified as U.S. Navy Lt. Philip Neil Butler of Black Well, Okla.

Radio Hanoi announced Thursday that Butler, 26, was captured April 24 in Nghe An Province after his plane was shot down April 20.

The State Department announced that U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor will return to Washington Sunday for consultations with President Johnson and other top officials.

Taylor delayed his departure from Saigon by one day to see whether there would be any political crisis. Newsmen in Washington were told that no such crisis was foreseen in Saigon.

Daniels said the truck had only one headlight. He turned on the cruiser flasher light on Wells Ave. in front of the American Legion post, but Weyend did not halt until driving onto the East Liverpool - Wellsville highway at Mason's Foodliner.

Daniels said he noticed there were three cases of soft drinks in the rear. When questioned, the two said they had been there for some time. He took the pair to the station and checked Rosenbergers, finding the rear of the plant had been broken into. The two later confessed.

They will receive a preliminary hearing Tuesday at 2 p.m. Bond was set by County Court at $1,000 each.

Millions Take To Highways For Holiday

By The Associated Press

The nation's traffic deaths in the early hours of the Memorial Day weekend appeared today to be running near the normal mark for a non-holiday period.

Millions of motorists headed for the highways in the first holiday weekend of spring and first reports since the count started at 6 p.m. (local time) Friday showed 29 traffic deaths. Michigan reported seven fatalities; Ohio four; Missouri three; two each in Illinois and Indiana and one each in California, North Carolina, Texas and Washington.

In the first three months this year traffic deaths averaged about 100 a day. The death toli last year was a record high of more than 48,000.

The National Safety Council has estimated that between 430 and 510 persons will die in traffic accidents during the 78-hour holiday period, ending at midnight Monday. The record for a three-day observance of Memorial Day was 431 set last year. The lowest total was 204 in 1948.

An Associated Press survey of highway fatalities during a three-day non-holiday weekend period, from 6 p.m. Friday May 14 to midnight Monday May 17, showed a total of 387.

Three Children Fire Victims In Portage County

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — Three children burned to death trapped in an outhouse near Garrettsville in northern Portage County Friday night.

The children were Benjamin Shockey, 6, his brother, William, 3, and Richard Dayton Bolyard, 12 of Warren who was visiting the Shockey home 3½ miles outside Garrettsville.

George Barnett, Garrettsville fire chief, said it took 10 minutes to find the fire because a neighbor who turned in the alarm gave a confusing report.

The chief said the 4 x 5 - foot building was a mass of flames by the time his men reached the Shockey home on Bloom Road in Nelson Township.

He said the blaze apparently was caused by children playing with matches. The children's mother tried to put out the fire with a garden hose.

The youngsters apparently locked themselves in and efforts to reach them failed.

The Bolyard boy was identified as the adopted son of the Rev. Darwin Bolyard of Warren.

Bill For Curbing Of Guns Termed 'Bad' Legislation

The Dodd Bill now pending in the U.S. Senate is "extremely bad" legislation which goes "far beyond" the control of mail order guns, Marvin Driver, district representative for the National Rifle Association, told the Lions Club Friday noon at the Travelers Hotel.

Driver said the proposed legislation is opposed by the NRA because it would require compulsory registration of all firearms and would affect only the rights of respectable, law-abiding citizens who enjoy hunting, trapshooting and target practice.

The right to keep and bear arms was established by the Second Amendment to the Constitution, he pointed out, but stressed that the NRA favors mandatory and severe penalties for misuse of guns. "It's not the gun that does wrong; it's the people handling it."

Subversive elements are pushing to disarm the country and the proposed bill also is favored by "well-meaning but either misinformed or uninformed people," Driver said.

The Dodd Bill will have no effect on criminal elements, the retired Detroit police official continued, "They never have registered their weapons and they won't in the future."

Driver pointed out Michigan has a registration law on firearms, but in 38 years of police work he said he cannot recall a single instance where the law prevented a crime.

New York has one of the most stringent registration laws in the nation, but Driver said he defies anyone to show how it has prevented or reduced crime in either the state or city.

The NRA-supported original legislation introduced last year by Sen. Dodd which was killed in committee. It provided that the purchaser of a weapon would have to submit an affidavit and the seller was required to send by registered mail a copy of the affidavit to the chief law enforcement officer of the community where the purchaser resided. When the seller received the return receipt, he would be permitted to mail the gun.

The film emphasized that to legislate the control of firearms would be like barring autos because some drivers are careless. It pointed out that similar legislation in Great Britain, which sent the firearms industry into virtual oblivion, almost led to the defeat of the country because of the lack of rifles and small arms in the threat of a Nazi invasion.

Mishap Tied To Rock Slide Injures Two

A rock slide on the East Liverpool - Wellsville highway caused two accidents early today, with two persons injured in one of the crashes, according to the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Officers said Peggy Chapman, 42, of Steubenville and a passenger, Robert Chapman, 48, also of Steubenville, were hurt when the car driven by the woman rammed into a large boulder at 1:20 a. m.

The slide occurred a half-mile west of the city limits, with one boulder blocking the entire righthand lane.

About 10 minutes before the Chapman crash, a car driven by Roy E. Anthony, 20, of Glenmoor also hit the debris from the side. He escaped injury.

Anthony came upon the slide and saw the large boulder blocking the one lane. He swerved to the left and hit several smaller rocks, damaging a tire and the undercarriage of his 1955 sedan.

Wellsville police arrived on the scene after the accident and were standing by with the cruiser light flashing. They also set out flares to the left lane. The officers then received a call and had to return to Wellsville.

U.S. Treasurer Fair After Brain Surgery

DARBY, Pa. (AP) — The treasurer of the United States, Kathryn O'Hay Granahan, was reported in fair condition today in Fitzgerald-Mercy Hospital after undergoing emergency brain surgey.

Her secretary, Josephine O'Donohue, said, "She is doing well and the doctors are pleased with her progress."

Doctors issued a statement Friday after the operation — performed to remove a blood clot from the surface of her brain — saying "definitely no malignancy was involved."

Democrats Support County Home Transfer, Federal Aid

Opposition to federal aid for county and community projects was criticized today by the Columbiana County Democratic Policy Committee, which said such assistance is vital for progress.

"We feel it is time our local government takes advantage of federal programs for capital improvements and competes with other counties in attracting industry and new jobs," the committee said in a statement.

"A County Citizens Committee recently disapproved of a proposed plan by the County Commissioners to transfer the County Home to the Welfare Department to make it eligible for federal programs. These same people did not say a word against the county's receiving federal aid to build the new nursing facility at the home.

"We feel such a stand is preventing progress in the county. What is wrong with receiving federal aid for the County Home? This would leave extra county money available for local improvements.

"The County Home is administered locally. Many city and village governments have received federal help for sewage and water plants which are run locally, and we do not see any federal troops around them.

"Most of these projects would not have been possible without federal assistance because the local governments could not afford them despite the critical need.

"If we are to be in a position to offer our children jobs in our county, we must do some of the things which should have been done 20 years ago. We must plan for new and better highways, we must do all we can to start a local college program.

"We are willing to work with anyone who has the best interests of the county in mind. We feel, however, we must move ahead eventually if some people want to live in the 19th century.

"We are confident the majority of the county residents want this to be a better county than it was when they arrived, and that they want a place where their children will remain to find adequate employment. To this we pledge our full support."

New York has one of the most stringent registration laws in the nation, but Driver said he defies anyone to show how it has prevented or reduced crime in either the state or city.

The NRA-supported original legislation introduced last year by Sen. Dodd which was killed in committee. It provided that the purchaser of a weapon would have to submit an affidavit and the seller was required to send by registered mail a copy of the affidavit to the chief law enforcement officer of the community where the purchaser resided. When the seller received the return receipt, he would be permitted to mail the gun.

The film emphasized that to legislate the control of firearms would be like barring autos because some drivers are careless. It pointed out that similar legislation in Great Britain, which sent the firearms industry into virtual oblivion, almost led to the defeat of the country because of the lack of rifles and small arms in the threat of a Nazi invasion.

Mishap Tied To Rock Slide Injures Two

A rock slide on the East Liverpool - Wellsville highway caused two accidents early today, with two persons injured in one of the crashes, according to the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Officers said Peggy Chapman, 42, of Steubenville and a passenger, Robert Chapman, 48, also of Steubenville, were hurt when the car driven by the woman rammed into a large boulder at 1:20 a. m.

The slide occurred a half-mile west of the city limits, with one boulder blocking the entire righthand lane.

About 10 minutes before the Chapman crash, a car driven by Roy E. Anthony, 20, of Glenmoor also hit the debris from the side. He escaped injury.

Anthony came upon the slide and saw the large boulder blocking the one lane. He swerved to the left and hit several smaller rocks, damaging a tire and the undercarriage of his 1955 sedan.

Wellsville police arrived on the scene after the accident and were standing by with the cruiser light flashing. They also set out flares to the left lane. The officers then received a call and had to return to Wellsville.

U.S. Treasurer Fair After Brain Surgery

DARBY, Pa. (AP) — The treasurer of the United States, Kathryn O'Hay Granahan, was reported in fair condition today in Fitzgerald-Mercy Hospital after undergoing emergency brain surgey.

Her secretary, Josephine O'Donohue, said, "She is doing well and the doctors are pleased with her progress."

Doctors issued a statement Friday after the operation — performed to remove a blood clot from the surface of her brain — saying "definitely no malignancy was involved."

Democrats Support County Home Transfer, Federal Aid

Opposition to federal aid for county and community projects was criticized today by the Columbiana County Democratic Policy Committee, which said such assistance is vital for progress.

"We feel it is time our local government takes advantage of federal programs for capital improvements and competes with other counties in attracting industry and new jobs," the committee said in a statement.

"A County Citizens Committee recently disapproved of a proposed plan by the County Commissioners to transfer the County Home to the Welfare Department to make it eligible for federal programs. These same people did not say a word against the county's receiving federal aid to build the new nursing facility at the home.

"We feel such a stand is preventing progress in the county. What is wrong with receiving federal aid for the County Home? This would leave extra county money available for local improvements.

"The County Home is administered locally. Many city and village governments have received federal help for sewage and water plants which are run locally, and we do not see any federal troops around them.

"Most of these projects would not have been possible without federal assistance because the local governments could not afford them despite the critical need.

"If we are to be in a position to offer our children jobs in our county, we must do some of the things which should have been done 20 years ago. We must plan for new and better highways, we must do all we can to start a local college program.

"We are willing to work with anyone who has the best interests of the county in mind. We feel, however, we must move ahead eventually if some people want to live in the 19th century.

"We are confident the majority of the county residents want this to be a better county than it was when they arrived, and that they want a place where their children will remain to find adequate employment. To this we pledge our full support."

Revolutionaries Can Be Good

"We know that when a Communist group seeks to exploit misery, the entire free inter-American system is put in deadly danger."—President Johnson.

Most of us are satisfied to let the ideological experts decide when Communists are to blame for disorder, the way President Johnson did in the instance of the Santo Domingo disorders.

These specialists can spot Communists on sight. They know them the way a detective knows a pickpocket.

They have card files on all important Communists, with names, addresses and past performances. Whether it's a campus mass meeting or a revolution in the Dominican Republic, our experts and innumerable volunteer helpers who aren't experts but like to think they have acquired expertise will keep us posted about Communists.

THE RUB comes when it's necessary to distinguish between Communist troublemakers and bona fide revolutionaries.

That's where the rub came in Cuba, where the Cubans had just cause to overthrow the despotic Batista, but where the United States had trouble distinguishing between bona fide revolutionists and Communist subversives.

It's where the rub came in the Dominican Republic, where a bona fide revolutionary movement and Communist activists were tangled together so inextricably no one can sort them out.

It makes no sense to condemn every revolution because Communists either are or might be mixed up in it.

Certainly it would make no sense to set up an international riot squad that would rush to every point of trouble to put down revolt because Communists might be among the revolutionaries. Preserving order at the cost of perpetrating despotism would be a barren policy.

AMERICAN colonists staged a revolution without being Communists, though they were egged on and assisted by the French, whose real aim was to stick a knife into Britain.

Had there been an international riot squad in existence then, it would have been dispatched to Boston in a hustle-bustle to protect the vested interest of King George III and his "establishment" against an American rebellion.

It's not easy to decide between good and bad revolutionaries. It never has been.

But the fact remains that some revolutionaries are good, especially if they win.

Be Friendly

The importance to a business enterprise — big or small — of friendly customer relations is brought to mind again in a letter from a reader.

The writer, who indicates a sincere interest in the welfare of all "hometown" merchants, points to the goodwill, and sales, generated by a local small independent operator to illustrate his point.

He has nothing but praise for the warm, sincere, friendly manner of the proprietor in question and suggests that it would do no harm for some of what he calls the "main line merchants and their sales personnel" to follow his enterprising and rewarding example.

Nothing could be lost if the need is there. And, who knows, the benefits could be many.

Farewell, Davy Crockett

An odd thing about official disenchantment with one of the country's most publicized new weapons, the Davy Crockett, is the way it was discounted ahead of time by the public. It sounded too good to be true.

The discounting applies to all new weapons. They all sound too good to be true.

It applies particularly to weapons that embody new ideas, like the Davy Crockett, a portable rocket with a nuclear warhead that could be handled and fired by as few as three men.

There is only one way to learn about new weapons — to use them in war.

Just how the Pentagon learned the Davy Crockett missile wasn't what the publicists had cracked it up to be is indeterminate. But it is only the latest in a lengthening series of missiles the militarists have puffed up before a morale-shattering letdown.

This is the bone-chilling fear of skeptics who fight grandiose proposals to throw away the stone hatchets, spears, bows and arrows and catapults of yesteryear.

They know the old weapons always are needed in the long run — and sometimes in the short run. They know visions of quick wars that were going to be won in a hurry with fantastic new weapons that would bring an enemy to his knees always fade when fighting begins.

Wars finally are called to a halt when both sides are tired of grappling in the mud and dust, beating each other with their clenched fists.

Where's The Joy?

"We did it for a joyride." That was the comment of two 15-year-old East Liverpool youths after they were taken into custody in a stolen car.

What "joy" there can be in such a situation for two 15-year-olds is difficult to understand.

There are many worthwhile pursuits on the right side of the law that would far more joyful.

Non-Modern Improvements

It would be helpful in the controversy that has broken out over the Statehouse landscaping if the controversialists remembered Joyce Kilmer's inspired line: "But only God can make a tree."

When the decision was made to build the underground parking garage that caused the Statehouse grounds to be torn up, a parallel decision was made to authorize destruction of mature trees.

There is no feasible way to replace mature trees.

Even if the cost of digging full-grown trees and transporting them to new locations could be justified, it would be a gamble whether they would survive the transplanting.

New oaks planted to replace the massive trees destroyed when the parking garage was built on Statehouse grounds would need half a century before they amounted to much — a century before they looked like the trees that had been destroyed.

"Only God can make a tree."

Landscapers can lend a helping hand, but even with unlimited funds they cannot make a mighty oak spring out of the ground to replace one bulldozed into oblivion to make room for another "modern improvement."

This is why so many "modern improvements" run into opposition when they entail destruction of non-modern improvements.

Imitators

By Truman Twill

We have tried to shuffle out of sight a clipping about Soviet scientists producing a synthetic caviar that cannot be distinguished from the real thing.

The idea bugs us.

It has been bugging us every time it has popped up.

It isn't easy to pin down just what causes this bugging. It is in connection with the invidious comparison made with the real thing, which is held in such low regard that a synthetic substitute has been developed.

Pearls as attractive as the real thing have been on the market for years.

It is possible to make synthetic diamonds and rubies.

Costume jewelry is an imitation of costly jewelry — and much of it is eye-catchier than the genuine stuff.

Chemical companies synthesize all kinds of fibers, though there's no price incentive because natural fibers, such as cotton and wool, are so cheap their producers are going broke.

There's a preparation that imitates coffee cream but isn't. One of the biggest things going in the beverage industry are soft drinks that taste as if they had sugar in them — but don't.

And get this: The Russian newspaper that told about the synthetic caviar predicted the fellows in the white coats would synthesize meat, grapes and berries as good as the real thing. Who needs them?

What would be wrong if governments ruled that the producers of the real thing had proprietary rights that could not be shoved aside by synthesizers, even though their imitations were labeled?

If Soviet scientists can make a synthetic goop that tastes like sturgeon eggs, bully for them. But if they're that clever, they should be able to make it taste like something no one ever tasted before. Get with it and let the sturgeons alone.

And the same with everything else scientists are clever enough to imitate, including the Japanese, who were the original imitators. They finally imitated a world power and had their ears pinned back.

There must be something flossier in store for big wonderful science than imitation of nature.

The Sculptor's Dilemma

Germans Make Workers 'Capitalists'

By Victor Riesel

UNITED NATIONS: In a private dining room here the other day an influential German labor leader disclosed the details of a system his powerful union has devised to make every worker a capitalist.

Victor Riesel

This was no pie - in - the-sky conversation. The visitor, 45-year old George Leber, president of the Building and Construction Workers' Union of West Germany, revealed that the plan starts operating on Jan. 1, 1966, under a contract signed with the industry's employers' associations last March.

This system of "workers' accumulation of assets and property" under a labor - management contract has so disturbed the Communists that they have set up a special investigatory bureau in East Berlin to prove its impact.

THE SOVIET ZONE government fears that the "accumulation of property" program will neutralize the traditional Marxist - Leninist theory of the inevitability of the final conflict between the capitalist and working classes.

"And what would Communist propagandists do if it could be demonstrated that there is no class struggle?" inquired one of Mr. Leber's colleagues.

The system, as written into the new union contract, has the authority and stability of simplicity. It could affect some 1.6 million workers in the industry, though Mr. Leber's union has a membership of 500,000.

In the pact the employers agreed to pay each worker nine pfennigs (2¼ cents) an hour, over and above the usual wages, if the worker agrees to throw in two pfennigs each hours. The union member does not have to get into the act.

THE 11 PFENNIGS will be put into an account in any bank the worker chooses. Actually the worker need not keep the money in the bank. But if he withdraws it he must pay an extraordinarily high income tax on the cash. This penalty is intended to act as a brake on his inclination to withdraw the money.

As the funds accumulate, the worker can invest it any way he wishes.

But he must invest it in the economy. He cannot borrow on it. He cannot buy a house or furniture, etc. He can put the money into the stock market, or into real estate, or into the company which employs him if shares are available, or into private business.

He need not take guidance. Except for the ban on personal use of the accumulating money, there are no restrictions. If the worker guesses wrong, he suffers as any other investor would.

AT NO TIME can he turn his investment into cash. If he sells, he must reinvest. The purpose is to give him a stake in the nation's industry, commerce and property — and instill in him the hope that he can leave his children a considerable investment in such society and in the democratic processes.

However, the worker can use the income on his investments—dividends, rents, business returns, etc.—for his personal use.

Should he leave the money in the bank, it is expected that he would have almost $20,000 at the end of 40 years. In Germany this is the equivalent of the purchasing power of at least $60,000 in the U.S.A.

There are many other details which fascinated the small luncheon group as Mr. Leber talked with the authority of a man who not only is a labor leader but is on the executive committee of his Social-Democratic party and sits in the parliament of the German Republic.

THERE WILL BE worker's mobility, for example. The man's account flows regardless of which building and construction contractor hires him.

Since there will be millions of accounts and investment records to be traced, this should make it a computer salesman's heaven.

Furthermore, explains Mr. Leber, the system will give the German economy a solid base. It will curtain inflation, stabilize the currency, and encourage efficiency and participation in government.

The accumulation of property and investments will give the workers a real stake in the success of industry — all industry.

The working class will be a partner — albeit junior partners — in a democratic capitalist society. Small wonder the East Zone's Communist theoreticians are disturbed.

Strategy In Asia

By Raymond Moley

The quit-and-run critics of the Johnson policy in Viet Nam suggest the easy solution of complete dependence upon air and sea power. They argue that the United States cannot, short of a colossal commitment of ground forces, end the war there and that such a commitment would surely bring Communist China into the conflict.

They argue also that a long-protracted conflict against the guerrillas will permit Red China to develop nuclear power of proportions which might even render our Navy powerless to protect the Philippines and Japan.

THIS CONCEPT that nuclear power, even developed years beyond Peking's crude beginnings, can destroy our Navy is absurd.

Nuclear attack upon the Seventh Fleet could at best destroy very few ships, while the submarines now a part of the fleet would remain immune and capable of powerful retaliation.

Even our Navy's capabilities and great air power on our bases off the long seacoast of China and Viet Nam could not prevent a Communist domination in Southeast Asia. A foothold on the continent must supplement them.

This has been forcefully pointed out by Rear Adm. John D. Hayes, USN (Ret.) in various articles, published as late as April.

He describes the decision of the Truman administration — or more directly, Secretary of State Acheson—to abandon continental China to the Reds as incredible folly.

Sound military advice at that time urged that the United States should have maintained an enclave at Tsingtao in North China which was held by us until 1949. Adm. Hayes says that had we done so, the Korean conflict might have been prevented.

RATHER THAN fighting in the jungles in Viet Nam, in many places, and against widely dispersed guerrilla contingents, we should hold a series of enclaves along the coast. With these firmly held by ground forces, our sea power could effectively prevent a takeover for an indefinite time.

Hayes concludes: "American divisions, like Roman legions, must stand guard on our border, which is today the littoral of the oceanic world, maintained and supported by sea and air forces. If any become endangered, they can be reinforced or withdrawn." This would be a far more dependable position than in the Vietnamese interior, where Marines and other ground troops are constantly exposed to attack on all sides by Communist guerrillas.

Inflation Ahead?

By David Lawrence

Government Again Seeks Higher Debt Limit

Millions of citizens probably did not notice a small item in the newspapers reporting that the secretary of the treasury, Henry H. Fowler, has asked Congress for legislation to increase the limit of the public debt from $324 billion to $329 billion, to take effect on July 1.

David Lawrence

Perhaps many citizens think—as do some Washington officials—that there is no limit to what the government of the United States may borrow, and that raising the public-debt ceiling by $5 billion is a piece of routine.

Actually, there is considerable significance in the fact that the United States Treasury keeps on asking Congress periodically to raise the debt limit. This has been going on for several years now.

The public debt has risen from $16.2 billion in 1930 to $320 billion in 1965 — only 35 years. The costs growing out of two world wars and the Korean War of course, pushed up the debt of the government in that period.

IT'S NOT the increase in military expenses — now about $50 billion a year — which alone keeps the public debt rising. There has been a tendency to spend just as much money on nonmilitary appropriations. For a while, tax rates, instead of being adjusted after a war was over, were retained at not far from the same levels. Only in recent years has there been a recognition of the fact that the tax rates might be inequitable and would produce more revenue if they could be adjusted to stimulate the economy.

It's one thing to reduce tax rates, and quite another to keep on piling up deficits. If the government continues to spend money for many things that are not absolutely essential, there is no way to bring down expenses and balance the budget.

The average citizen isn't aware of the consequences of continuously unbalanced budgets. He thinks that the government is rich enough to pay its bills and that the public debt can always be refinanced by selling bonds to the banks and to the people generally.

The history of governments, however, has shown that, while financing and refinancing is accepted as a normal process, there comes a time when doubts are raised as to whether the purchasing power of the monetary unit can be maintained.

THE DOLLAR doesn't buy today what it did 10 years ago. Just this week, an Associated Press survey shows that costs of some foods are as much as 15 per cent higher this spring than a year ago and that in many instances food prices are at a record level. The causes, of course, are numerous. But as prices and wages rise, inflation sets in.

Fears of inflationary trends are often disregarded, on the theory that if the inflation is gradual and not sudden, it can be absorbed.

In the long run the dollar can become weaker and weaker as the government is unable to maintain a sound financial program. An UPI dispatch last Wednesday, for example, read in part as follows:

"WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, Va. — President Johnson's top economic adviser today voiced concern over recent wholesale price increases and warned that inflation could force the government to stop cutting taxes and abandon other expansionary policies as well.

"Gardner Ackley, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors, said factory prices have been 'edging up.' While the movement has been slight so far, the number of price increases 'seems to be accelerating,' Ackley said in a speech prepared for delivery to the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association.

"THE ADMINISTRATION official said many of the recent price increases are justified by higher costs and that some of them may not stick or will be eroded by competition. 'Yet there is just enough movement of prices to be disturbing,' he said.

" 'Surely none of us would welcome moving toward fiscal and monetary policies that restrict economic expansion, so long as resources remain in ample supply, simply as an indirect means of holding prices in check.

" 'Yet the time may come when pressures to do just that will become very strong,' Ackley said."

The Johnson administration holds out the hope that some day it will balance the budget. It doesn't say when. There have been very few years in the last 20 when any surpluses have been accumulated, and even when more money is collected than is spent, the excess is not used to pay off anything on the public debt. The assumption is that the debt limit can be raised indefinitely.

The fact remains that the debt keeps piling up as expenditures are larger than receipts. The big test of fiscal strength or weakness will come in the next two or three years when the effect of cuts in income taxes as well as in excise taxes can really be measured.

Unless the economy is stimulated to wipe out the loss of revenue from reduced tax rates and some kind of surplus is achieved, the general impression in the financial markets of the world will be that the United States is in for an indefinite period of inflation.

Down Through The Years

From The Review Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO — The J. W. Wintereich pottery in Salineville was sold to Youngstown and Sebring interests.

F. A. Saltsman of Clark Ave., Wellsville, was placed on the retired roll by the government after serving 30 years in the postal service.

TWENTY YEARS AGO—The Rev. H. Dale Mitchell, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene, here for three years, resigned to accept a charge in Chicago.

Troop 22 of the Second Baptist Church contributed $25 toward the fund for the building and furnishing of a Girl Scout cabin at Thompson Park.

An East End man escaped injury when his 1940 convertible went out of control on the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Road" and overturned against a guard rail that prevented it from plunging down the steep hillside.

TEN YEARS AGO — Loss in a holdup of the Goddard Bakery Co. at Chester totaled $10,000.

Mildred A. McFarland of Chester was promoted to sergeant with the Women's Marine Corps at Quantico, Va.

Restoration

Fortunately, the livery stables of colonial Philadelphia no longer stand near Independence Hall, but in most other respects the historic birthplace of the United States will soon look as it did that hot, First Fourth of July in 1776.

The National Park Service—after a decade of research through four million documents, letters and illustrations — is restoring Independence Hall as well as some 25 historic buildings in an area encompassing more than six city blocks. The entire project could take 20 years.

"Our approach is that time is not the important thing — accuracy is," Melford O. Anderson, superintendent of Independence National Historical Park, has said.

Restoration began several months ago in the Assembly Room, scene of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence and Constitution of the United States.

It's not easy to decide between good and bad revolutionaries. It never has been.

But the fact remains that some revolutionaries are good, especially if they win.

Be Friendly

The importance to a business enterprise — big or small — of friendly customer relations is brought to mind again in a letter from a reader.

The writer, who indicates a sincere interest in the welfare of all "hometown" merchants, points to the goodwill, and sales, generated by a local small independent operator to illustrate his point.

He has nothing but praise for the warm, sincere, friendly manner of the proprietor in question and suggests that it would do no harm for some of what he calls the "main line merchants and their sales personnel" to follow his enterprising and rewarding example.

Nothing could be lost if the need is there. And, who knows, the benefits could be many.

Farewell, Davy Crockett

An odd thing about official disenchantment with one of the country's most publicized new weapons, the Davy Crockett, is the way it was discounted ahead of time by the public. It sounded too good to be true.

The discounting applies to all new weapons. They all sound too good to be true.

It applies particularly to weapons that embody new ideas, like the Davy Crockett, a portable rocket with a nuclear warhead that could be handled and fired by as few as three men.

There is only one way to learn about new weapons — to use them in war.

Just how the Pentagon learned the Davy Crockett missile wasn't what the publicists had cracked it up to be is indeterminate. But it is only the latest in a lengthening series of missiles the militarists have puffed up before a morale-shattering letdown.

This is the bone-chilling fear of skeptics who fight grandiose proposals to throw away the stone hatchets, spears, bows and arrows and catapults of yesteryear.

They know the old weapons always are needed in the long run — and sometimes in the short run. They know visions of quick wars that were going to be won in a hurry with fantastic new weapons that would bring an enemy to his knees always fade when fighting begins.

Wars finally are called to a halt when both sides are tired of grappling in the mud and dust, beating each other with their clenched fists.

Where's The Joy?

"We did it for a joyride." That was the comment of two 15-year-old East Liverpool youths after they were taken into custody in a stolen car.

What "joy" there can be in such a situation for two 15-year-olds is difficult to understand.

Non-Modern Improvements

It would be helpful in the controversy that has broken out over the Statehouse landscaping if the controversialists remembered Joyce Kilmer's inspired line: "But only God can make a tree."

When the decision was made to build the underground parking garage that caused the Statehouse grounds to be torn up, a parallel decision was made to authorize destruction of mature trees.

There is no feasible way to replace mature trees.

Even if the cost of digging full-grown trees and transporting them to new locations could be justified, it would be a gamble whether they would survive the transplanting.

New oaks planted to replace the massive trees destroyed when the parking garage was built on Statehouse grounds would need half a century before they amounted to much — a century before they looked like the trees that had been destroyed.

"Only God can make a tree."

Landscapers can lend a helping hand, but even with unlimited funds they cannot make a mighty oak spring out of the ground to replace one bulldozed into oblivion to make room for another "modern improvement."

This is why so many "modern improvements" run into opposition when they entail destruction of non-modern improvements.

Imitators

By Truman Twill

We have tried to shuffle out of sight a clipping about Soviet scientists producing a synthetic caviar that cannot be distinguished from the real thing.

The idea bugs us.

It has been bugging us every time it has popped up.

It isn't easy to pin down just what causes this bugging. It is in connection with the invidious comparison made with the real thing, which is held in such low regard that a synthetic substitute has been developed.

Pearls as attractive as the real thing have been on the market for years.

It is possible to make synthetic diamonds and rubies.

Costume jewelry is an imitation of costly jewelry — and much of it is eye-catchier than the genuine stuff.

Chemical companies synthesize all kinds of fibers, though there's no price incentive because natural fibers, such as cotton and wool, are so cheap their producers are going broke.

There's a preparation that imitates coffee cream but isn't. One of the biggest things going in the beverage industry are soft drinks that taste as if they had sugar in them — but don't.

And get this: The Russian newspaper that told about the synthetic caviar predicted the fellows in the white coats would synthesize meat, grapes and berries as good as the real thing. Who needs them?

What would be wrong if governments ruled that the producers of the real thing had proprietary rights that could not be shoved aside by synthesizers, even though their imitations were labeled?

If Soviet scientists can make a synthetic goop that tastes like sturgeon eggs, bully for them. But if they're that clever, they should be able to make it taste like something no one ever tasted before. Get with it and let the sturgeons alone.

And the same with everything else scientists are clever enough to imitate, including the Japanese, who were the original imitators. They finally imitated a world power and had their ears pinned back.

There must be something flossier in store for big wonderful science than imitation of nature.

The Sculptor's Dilemma

Germans Make Workers 'Capitalists'

By Victor Riesel

UNITED NATIONS:

In a private dining room here the other day an influential German labor leader disclosed the details of a system his powerful union has devised to make every worker a capitalist.

Victor Riesel

This was no pie - in - the-sky conversation. The visitor, 45-year old George Leber, president of the Building and Construction Workers' Union of West Germany, revealed that the plan starts operating on Jan. 1, 1966, under a contract signed with the industry's employers' associations last March.

This system of "workers' accumulation of assets and property" under a labor - management contract has so disturbed the Communists that they have set up a special investigatory bureau in East Berlin to prove its impact.

THE SOVIET ZONE government fears that the "accumulation of property" program will neutralize the traditional Marxist - Leninist theory of the inevitability of the final conflict between the capitalist and working classes.

"And what would Communist propagandists do if it could be demonstrated that there is no class struggle?" inquired one of Mr. Leber's colleagues.

The system, as written into the new union contract, has the authority and stability of simplicity. It could affect some 1.6 million workers in the industry, though Mr. Leber's union has a membership of 500,000.

In the pact the employers agreed to pay each worker nine pfennigs (2¼ cents) an hour, over and above the usual wages, if the worker agrees to throw in two pfennigs each hours. The union member does not have to get into the act.

THE 11 PFENNIGS will be put into an account in any bank the worker chooses. Actually the worker need not keep the money in the bank. But if he withdraws it he must pay an extraordinarily high income tax on the cash. This penalty is intended to act as a brake on his inclination to withdraw the money.

As the funds accumulate, the worker can invest it any way he wishes.

But he must invest it in the economy. He cannot borrow on it. He cannot buy a house or furniture, etc. He can put the money into the stock market, or into real estate, or into the company which employs him if shares are available, or into private business.

He need not take guidance. Except for the ban on personal use of the accumulating money, there are no restrictions. If the worker guesses wrong, he suffers as any other investor would.

AT NO TIME can he turn his investment into cash. If he sells, he must reinvest. The purpose is to give him a stake in the nation's industry, commerce and property — and instill in him the hope that he can leave his children a considerable investment in such society and in the democratic processes.

However, the worker can use the income on his investments—dividends, rents, business returns, etc.—for his personal use.

Should he leave the money in the bank, it is expected that he would have almost $20,000 at the end of 40 years. In Germany this is the equivalent of the purchasing power of at least $60,000 in the U.S.A.

There are many other details which fascinated the small luncheon group as Mr. Leber talked with the authority of a man who not only is a labor leader but is on the executive committee of his Social-Democratic party and sits in the parliament of the German Republic.

THERE WILL BE worker's mobility, for example. The man's account flows regardless of which building and construction contractor hires him.

Since there will be millions of accounts and investment records to be traced, this should make it a computer salesman's heaven.

Furthermore, explains Mr. Leber, the system will give the German economy a solid base. It will curtain inflation, stabilize the currency, and encourage efficiency and participation in government.

The accumulation of property and investments will give the workers a real stake in the success of industry — all industry.

The working class will be a partner — albeit junior partners — in a democratic capitalist society. Small wonder the East Zone's Communist theoreticians are disturbed.

Strategy In Asia

By Raymond Moley

The quit-and-run critics of the Johnson policy in Viet Nam suggest the easy solution of complete dependence upon air and sea power. They argue that the United States cannot, short of a colossal commitment of ground forces, end the war there and that such a commitment would surely bring Communist China into the conflict.

They argue also that a long-protracted conflict against the guerrillas will permit Red China to develop nuclear power of proportions which might even render our Navy powerless to protect the Philippines and Japan.

THIS CONCEPT that nuclear power, even developed years beyond Peking's crude beginnings, can destroy our Navy is absurd.

Nuclear attack upon the Seventh Fleet could at best destroy very few ships, while the submarines now a part of the fleet would remain immune and capable of powerful retaliation.

Even our Navy's capabilities and great air power on our bases off the long seacoast of China and Viet Nam could not prevent a Communist domination in Southeast Asia. A foothold on the continent must supplement them.

This has been forcefully pointed out by Rear Adm. John D. Hayes, USN (Ret.) in various articles, published as late as April.

He describes the decision of the Truman administration — or more directly, Secretary of State Acheson—to abandon continental China to the Reds as incredible folly.

Sound military advice at that time urged that the United States should have maintained an enclave at Tsingtao in North China which was held by us until 1949. Adm. Hayes says that had we done so, the Korean conflict might have been prevented.

RATHER THAN fighting in the jungles in Viet Nam, in many places, and against widely dispersed guerrilla contingents, we should hold a series of enclaves along the coast. With these firmly held by ground forces, our sea power could effectively prevent a takeover for an indefinite time.

Hayes concludes: "American divisions, like Roman legions, must stand guard on our border, which is today the littoral of the oceanic world, maintained and supported by sea and air forces. If any become endangered, they can be reinforced or withdrawn." This would be a far more dependable position than in the Vietnamese interior, where Marines and other ground troops are constantly exposed to attack on all sides by Communist guerrillas.

Inflation Ahead?

By David Lawrence

Government Again Seeks Higher Debt Limit

Millions of citizens probably did not notice a small item in the newspapers reporting that the secretary of the treasury, Henry H. Fowler, has asked Congress for legislation to increase the limit of the public debt from $324 billion to $329 billion, to take effect on July 1.

David Lawrence

Perhaps many citizens think—as do some Washington officials—that there is no limit to what the government of the United States may borrow, and that raising the public-debt ceiling by $5 billion is a piece of routine.

Actually, there is considerable significance in the fact that the United States Treasury keeps on asking Congress periodically to raise the debt limit. This has been going on for several years now.

The public debt has risen from $16.2 billion in 1930 to $320 billion in 1965 — only 35 years. The costs growing out of two world wars and the Korean War of course, pushed up the debt of the government in that period.

IT'S NOT the increase in military expenses — now about $50 billion a year — which alone keeps the public debt rising. There has been a tendency to spend just as much money on nonmilitary appropriations. For a while, tax rates, instead of being adjusted after a war was over, were retained at not far from the same levels. Only in recent years has there been a recognition of the fact that the tax rates might be inequitable and would produce more revenue if they could be adjusted to stimulate the economy.

It's one thing to reduce tax rates, and quite another to keep on piling up deficits. If the government continues to spend money for many things that are not absolutely essential, there is no way to bring down expenses and balance the budget.

The average citizen isn't aware of the consequences of continuously unbalanced budgets. He thinks that the government is rich enough to pay its bills and that the public debt can always be refinanced by selling bonds to the banks and to the people generally.

The history of governments, however, has shown that, while financing and refinancing is accepted as a normal process, there comes a time when doubts are raised as to whether the purchasing power of the monetary unit can be maintained.

THE DOLLAR doesn't buy today what it did 10 years ago. Just this week, an Associated Press survey shows that costs of some foods are as much as 15 per cent higher this spring than a year ago and that in many instances food prices are at a record level. The causes, of course, are numerous. But as prices and wages rise, inflation sets in.

Fears of inflationary trends are often disregarded, on the theory that if the inflation is gradual and not sudden, it can be absorbed.

In the long run the dollar can become weaker and weaker as the government is unable to maintain a sound financial program. An UPI dispatch last Wednesday, for example, read in part as follows:

"WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, Va. — President Johnson's top economic adviser today voiced concern over recent wholesale price increases and warned that inflation could force the government to stop cutting taxes and abandon other expansionary policies as well.

"Gardner Ackley, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors, said factory prices have been 'edging up.' While the movement has been slight so far, the number of price increases 'seems to be accelerating,' Ackley said in a speech prepared for delivery to the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association.

"THE ADMINISTRATION official said many of the recent price increases are justified by higher costs and that some of them may not stick or will be eroded by competition. 'Yet there is just enough movement of prices to be disturbing,' he said.

" 'Surely none of us would welcome moving toward fiscal and monetary policies that restrict economic expansion, so long as resources remain in ample supply, simply as an indirect means of holding prices in check.

" 'Yet the time may come when pressures to do just that will become very strong,' Ackley said."

The Johnson administration holds out the hope that some day it will balance the budget. It doesn't say when. There have been very few years in the last 20 when any surpluses have been accumulated, and even when more money is collected than is spent, the excess is not used to pay off anything on the public debt. The assumption is that the debt limit can be raised indefinitely.

The fact remains that the debt keeps piling up as expenditures are larger than receipts. The big test of fiscal strength or weakness will come in the next two or three years when the effect of cuts in income taxes as well as in excise taxes can really be measured.

Unless the economy is stimulated to wipe out the loss of revenue from reduced tax rates and some kind of surplus is achieved, the general impression in the financial markets of the world will be that the United States is in for an indefinite period of inflation.

Restoration

Fortunately, the livery stables of colonial Philadelphia no longer stand near Independence Hall, but in most other respects the historic birthplace of the United States will soon look as it did that hot, First Fourth of July in 1776.

The National Park Service—after a decade of research through four million documents, letters and illustrations — is restoring Independence Hall as well as some 25 historic buildings in an area encompassing more than six city blocks. The entire project could take 20 years.

"Our approach is that time is not the important thing — accuracy is," Melford O. Anderson, superintendent of Independence National Historical Park, has said.

Restoration began several months ago in the Assembly Room, scene of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence and Constitution of the United States.

Pittsburgher Named To Jewish Appeal Post

PITTSBURGH — Ivan J. Novick, Pittsburgh business executive and communal leader, has been named chairman of the United Jewish Appeal's leadership development program in the Tri-State area.

The announcement was made in New York City by Max M. Fisher, the appeal's general chairman.

In his new post, Novick will be associated with Herman Fineberg, also of Pittsburgh, UJA chairman for the region, which covers Western Pennsylvania, the southeast portion of Ohio and the major Jewish communities in West Virginia, northern Maryland and eastern Kentucky.

Novick, who is also associate area chairman for this region for the UJA Young Leadership Cabinet, has been prominent in Jewish communal affairs since his graduation from the Unviersity of Pittsburgh in 1949.

He has served on the United Jewish Federation's Central Planning and Budget Committee and its national and overseas committees. In support of the federation's annual fund-raising campaigns for local, national and overseas needs, in which the UJA is a major beneficiary, Novick has served as co-chairman of the Business and Professional Division, as campaign chairman and executive committee chairman of the Young Adult Division and as associate chairman of the Manufacturing Division. In 1964, he received the Federation's Young Leadership award for outstanding services to the community.

Polish Singers Vie For Chalice Worth $250,000

CLEVELAND (AP) — More than 1,000 singers will take part in song competition of the Polish Singers Alliance of America, vying for a silver chalice which alliance officials say has been valued at more than $250,000.

The chalice, being awarded Sunday, has been in the vault of a Detroit bank the past three years. It has 23 rare silver coins embedded in it, according to Joseph F. Czechlewski, a New York attorney who is president of the alliance.

The alliance, founded in 1888, is holding its 34th convention here. There are 62 member choirs, and they complete every three years for a plaque and the right to take of the chalice until the next competition.

The chalice is named for August Cardinal Hlond, Roman Catholic primate of Poland who presented it to the Polish singers in 1934. Some of the coins embedded in it date from the 16th Century.

NOON by the Chapel Clock

One . . . two . . . three.

Four years Connie and I have listened to that deep, resonant chime counting off the hours of our college days. Sometimes it was just part of the setting at State — like the Commons, and the Quad, and Moonlight Walk. But often it called us to high moments of worship and thought and prayer.

Four . . . five . . . six.

Today we pause, and count! Exams are over. Trunks are packed. Books are on their way back to the Library. Tomorrow — Commencement.

Seven . . . eight . . . nine.

Again we're reading each other's thoughts. Let's walk once more through that graceful arch, hand-in-hand and smiling. Let's kneel together in the sacred stillness, breathing our thanks . . . our hopes . . . our needs . . . our dreams. For life and love await us. And these we will share with God! It is Noon by the Chapel Clock.

Ten . . . eleven . . . twelve.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

NOON by the Chapel Clock

One . . . two . . . three.

Four years Connie and I have listened to that deep, resonant chime counting off the hours of our college days. Sometimes it was just part of the setting at State — like the Commons, and the Quad, and Moonlight Walk. But often it called us to high moments of worship and thought and prayer.

Four . . . five . . . six.

Today we pause, and count! Exams are over. Trunks are packed. Books are on their way back to the Library. Tomorrow — Commencement.

Seven . . . eight . . . nine.

Again we're reading each other's thoughts. Let's walk once more through that graceful arch, hand-in-hand and smiling. Let's kneel together in the sacred stillness, breathing our thanks . . . our hopes . . . our needs . . . our dreams. For life and love await us. And these we will share with God! It is Noon by the Chapel Clock.

Ten . . . eleven . . . twelve.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Annual Horse Show Awaited

Club's Ready To Ride!

By ROBERT DUFFY

It's time to saddle up again if you are a member of the Tri-State Boot and Saddle Club.

The club will present its 22nd annual horse show June 6 at its grounds on Route 267 near Glenmore.

The oldest show in this part of Ohio, it may be the last on the present grounds. The new Lake Erie-Ohio River highway will cross the property eventually, leaving the club without facilities.

EAST LIVERPOOL REVIEW
FeaturePages
East Liverpool, O., Saturday, May 29 Page 8

The quarter horse will strut his stuff June 6 with 37 classes offered in competition.

FEATURE OF THIS year's show will be the open cutting class which offers a $200 purse.

The cutting horse was used in the West to take certain cattle from the range herds, and the cutting event has become a popular show attraction in recent years.

The local club is striving to gain a higher classification from the American Quarter Horse Association and members hope to have over 150 entries. The show has been drawing over 1,000 spectators each year.

Laughlin is president of the Tri-State club.

Paul Seckman, has announced Dr. Leroy Hyman of Gates Mills, Ohio owner of world champion cutting horses, will enter two of the top ten cutting horses in the country.

Members of the Tri-State club compete in shows in Ohio and travel from 50 to 200 miles to enter. Shows are staged at Canton, the nearest to East Liverpool — Columbus, Ashland, Mansfield, Tiffin and Fairborn.

WHILE THE QUARTER horse gained popularity in the Southwest, the breed has spread to the East in recent years. At present, Ohio ranks ninth in the number of approved quarter horse shows held annually among the 47 states where the shows are staged.

At Norwalk, Ohio racing is held each weekend, but although efforts have been made, no parimutuel betting has been approved for quarter harse racing although it has been legalized in the Southwest.

With the popularity increasing in Ohio, the state has gained the national convention for 1966 at Cincinnati.

The history of the quarter horse dates back to the colonial era when the breed originated.

Match racing was the leading outdoor sport with contests run on village streets and along country lanes. Seldom were these horses raced beyond 440 yards and the name "quarter miler" or "quarter horse" originated.

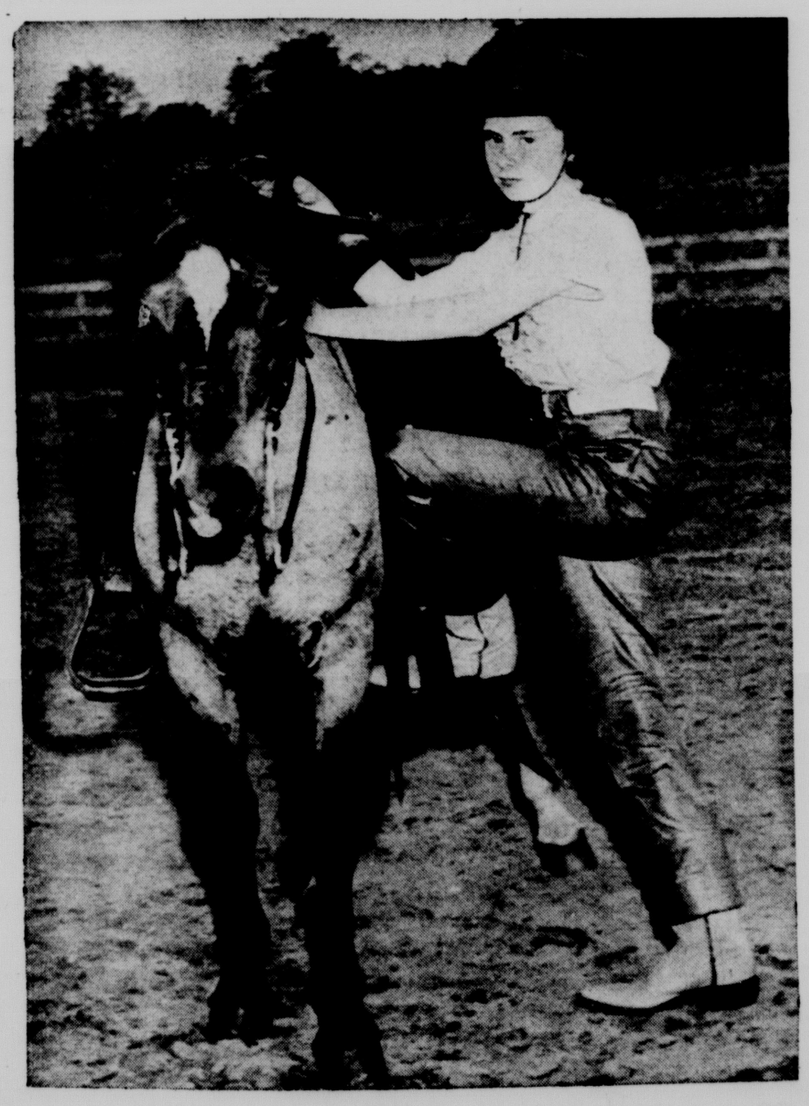

THE QUARTER HORSE became established in the Southwest in the early part of the 19th Century. As the horse was used to trail cattle north and west, he left his progeny along the way, though his greatest influence remained in the Southwest until after his registry was recognized in 1941 by the American Quarter Horse Association.

In the years after the registry was begun, the breed spread rapidly throughout the nation, into Canada, Old Mexico and overseas. Today, the registry of the quarter horse has grown more than three times as fast as any other horse breed registry in the world.

The quarter horse is unlike any other breed. In performance and endurance he has never been excelled and has been defined as the most versatile horse in the world.

Cattle cutting, or separating individual animals from the herd, is a featured event of the Tri-State Boot and Saddle Show. The quarter horse is adept at edging cattle out on cues from the rider.

The 'Needless War' Recalled

By GLENN WAIGHT

"It wasn't much of a war," Teddy Roosevelt said afterward, "But it was the best we had."

Yet the American Flags which flutter across the graves of Spanish-American War Veterans this Memorial Day testify to the courage and sacrifice on the part of thousands of men in that seemingly unnecessary conflict of 1898.

Among those who went to fever-infested Cuba to end the Spanish repression of the natives was Ray D. Thomson of near Elkton, a spry, 88-year-old ex-farmer, ex-steelworker who clearly recalls the humor and tragedy of the war which made the United States a world power.

Thomson was 21, a Meigs County school teacher, wher he "got the Army bug" as the nation became angered and inflamed over the suspicious sinking of the U.S. battleship Maine in Havana harbor by an explosion killing 266 of the crew.

NEWSPAPERS carried stories, many exaggerated, of Spanish atrocities in Cuba, which, with Puerto Rico, were all that remained of Spain's once - great empire in North America.

Cuba had been a hotbed of insurrections after 1868 and in 1895 Gen. Valeriano Weyler was sent with Spanish troops to take strict action to quell querrilla warfare.

A former Army veteran told Thomson he ought to sign up—"all you'll do is drill, you won't get into anything"—so he went to Columbus and enlisted in the 17th Infantry, after waiting in camp for his May 4 birthday so he could qualify as 21.

Americans, sympathetic with the Cubans but also feeling their nationalist power and living in the glorified memory of the Civil War, were not averse to war, especially when incited by newspaper stories, primarily those of the Hearst chain.

President William McKinley could have taken a strong stand for peace, but was fearful of losing control over his Republican party whose younger leaders were clamoring for a fight with Spain.

Indeed, Spain on April 9, 1898, had ordered hostilities halted in Cuba and had given into the American demands on every count. But two days later the President sent a war message to Congress, and the "needless War," as it was termed, was underway.

THOMSON AND his companions went by train to Tampa, Fla., to await the expedition to the island. They were cheered by the victory of Commodore George Dewey's naval forces over the decrepit Spanish squadron in Manila Bay, but they were also discomfited over the heat, confusion, lack of proper rations and facilities at Tampa.

A Spanish fleet under Admiral Pascual Cervera had left the Cape Verde Islands for Cuba, and within two weeks had been able to slip by U.S. ships and enter Santiago Bay.

The U.S. Atlantic Fleet took up positions around Santiago harbor, but it was clear now that the Army would have to attack the rear of the city's garrison to force the Spanish ships to flee. Estimates of the enemy troops were as high as 200,000, but there were only about 80,000 Spanish on the island.

Preparations for embarking were pushed at the crowded inadequate port of Tampa, and by June 14, after much delay and amazing confusion, 32 transports carrying nearly 17,000 men put to sea, led by 300-pound Gen. William Shafter with orders to capture Santiago.

SIX DAYS LATER they arrived off the coast, although it took three more days to land the men.

"We were dressed in wool uniforms with full field packs and blanket rolls with heavy Krag rifles and ammunition," Thomson recalls of the day after the landing, and the march toward the hills back of the city.

"They were asking for insubordination to have us dress like that," he said, adding many of the men threw away much of their gear along the way.

Thomson said his outfit served as reinforcements for the "Rough Riders" in the engagement which cost eight lives.

The rest of the troops, slowed by illness and disorganization, were not ready for the assault toward Santiago until July 1 when an outpost at El Caney was hit and a stronger drive made upon entrenchments on San Juan Hill.

Thomson remembers the shelling, and the small arms firing with the Spanish, but said he did not see any of the enemy except as prisoners, and fortunately escaped injury.

SAN JUAN HILL was taken by Roosevelt's cavalry, but the attackers had suffered heavy losses, and there were stronger entrenchments on the way to Santiago. Shafter and Roosevelt were worried, noting the need for more men, artillery, food and ammunition.

But the Spanish were worse off — the army lacked ammunition and those in the city were starving. Admiral Cervera was ordered to escape from the harbor, despite his protests the move would be ruinous, his ships moved out on July 3.

A running sea fight began, and although the American fire was not particularly accurate — no serious hits affected the hulls of the Spanish cruisers — the shells set the wooden decks ablaze, and all of Cervera's ships were beached or sunk.

Spanish losses totaled nearly 400, the American casualties were one killed, one wounded. Credit on the navy victory was disputed — Admiral William Sampson did not arrive with his flagship until the battle was over. Commodore W. S. Schley was on the scene, but his orders were largely ignored by the captains.

ON JULY 16 Santiago surrendered — none too soon, for the American army was also hard - pressed for proper food and medical attention needed for the thousands felled by malaria and dysentery.

Hard tack was the main fare of the soldiers, and Thomson recalls going on a detail into Santiago for bread, a refreshing change from the rock-like biscuits. "It rained each day at some time," he said, adding he was made ill with malaria.

The conflict was over, the soldiers wanted to return, the need to leave the unhealthy conditions was obvious — but there was hesitation at Washington about the possible spread of disease in the U.S. by the returning troops.

Finally, the matter was revealed in the newspapers, and public pressure brought the return of the Army in August to Montauk Point, L. I., where, according to Thomson, a review was held of all the able troops.

The Elkton man remembers Roosevelt there, riding about on his horse, and also saw President McKinley who had come to honor the men.

Thomson did hospital duty for a while, then returned to Columbus and was discharged in the fall.

WITH THE PEACE, America made Cuba independent, obtained Puerto Rico and the distant Philippine Islands and had gained new stature among the nations of the world.

Thomson, who later worked in the steel mills at Pittsburgh and went to Midland in 1917 to work at the Crucible plant then moved to the Lisbon area to farm, said the soldiers were not fully aware of the issues in the fighting.

"We griped and talked about the fouled-up affairs in the army, just as soldiers did before and still do."

But when he stands up tall, a 6-foot-2, and looks off past the hills, you know he is remembering the far journey and the Flag whipping against palm trees.

Thomson, who resides with his daughter, Mrs. Sidney Scroggs, is among the dwindling few still alive who marched in the ranks with the Spanish - American veterans down through the years.

Today, the toll of American dead in the Viet Nam fighting is already more than the 285 killed in action in Cuba in 1898.

But no less then than now do the Stars and Stripes on the graves of those slain by the enemy on distant shores honor the memory of men who served their country and the ideals for which men have been dying since 1776.

Teddy Roosevelt's "Rough Riders," wearing blue shirts and khaki trousers, are urged toward San Juan Hill by an excited "TR" in this view by Post who died in 1956. These paintings were reproduced in an article about the artist in Life Magazine in July 1958.

Stamps In The News

Nationalist China's Pavilion at the New York World's Fair can be seen via postage stamp, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. Two new stamps have been issued by the Formosa government to honor the second session of the fair and depicting its beautiful edifice there. One stamp shows the Unisphere surrounded by the fountain and pool. At the right is the Chinese Pavilion. The other stamp illustrates a picture entitled "100 birds paying tribute to Queen Phoenix" from a carved wood screen on display at the pavilion. It is symbolic of the visitors who come from all over the world to see the exhibition. The Unisphere is seen in the upper right corner of this stamp. Both new stamps are inscribed in Chinese characters only. They are available at your local stamp dealer.

Russia has honored its cosmonaut program and particularly the "man who walked in space" with a special new stamp and cacheted covers, reports Stamps Magazine's Harry Lindquist. The stamp depicts the spacecraft with one cosmonaut outside and one inside. The covers bear large portraits of the fliers.

Ethiopia has issued five new stamps showing local flowers. Depicted are the Ethiopian rose which has been referred to as the origin of all other roses, the Kosso tree found in the mountainous area, St. John's Worts which look like medals hanging from a tree, parrot tree, very common in the bushlands and the maskal flower which is the national flower of Ethiopia.

Visitors to the World's Fair will be able to see the U.S. Post Office's most famous mistake, the 24-cent airmail in invert, along with other postal rarities at the fair's post office. Free cachets are being issued there especially for the exhibition. The cachet envelope has a picture of the fair's post office and the Unisphere in the background. A feature of this post office is a narrated "Trip With Mr. ZIP" which takes visitors through the highly mechanized operation and explains how a modern post office works.

Pakistan has announced the issuance of two new stamps in its series of historical sites of the Muslim period. The 15p and the 50p stamps depict the Badshahi Mosque of Lahore in natural colors. Soon to be issued will be stamps for the International Cooperation Year and the ITU anniversary.

Cyprus has issued three commemorative stamps honoring their new Social Insurance Law. The new law provides for cash benefits for marriage, maternity, sickness, unemployment, widowhood, orphanhood, old age and death. It covers everyone gainfully employed in Cyprus. The 30 mills green and light brown is for "old age." The 45 m light blue and dark blue is for "accidents." The 75 m brown and beige is for "maternity."

You And The Law

Larry and Laura had decided after many months of going "steady" to tie the knot. They set the date as Larry presented his bride - to - be with a large diamond ring. Everybody was happy.

Laura's birthday was a few weeks later, so Larry decided to surprise her with another gift. This time it was an expensive diamond dress pin.

A FEW weeks later, Laura decided to surprise Larry. She told him the engagement was off and all the plans for the wedding were canceled. It took Larry a while to get over the shock, but when he did he asked for the return of the ring and the pin.

"Sorry, Larry," Laura said. "You gave me those after we were engaged. There were no strings attached to them. I don't have to give them back."

In similar cases, courts have ruled that the engagement ring is a symbol or pledge of the coming marriage and signifies that the one who wears it is engaged to marry the man who gave it to her. If the engagement is broken off, the ring should be returned, since it was a conditional gift.

IT WOULD BE rather awkward for a man to tell his bride-to-be that she must give back the ring if they do not get married. Even though no such express condition is imposed, however, the law will imply one because of the symbolic significance of the ring.

Larry was out of luck, however, in getting the pin returned. Although it was given after the engagement, the pin was only a token of the love and affection Larry had for Laura. It had no symbolic meaning. Under the law there is no consideration required for a gift. It is absolute once made, unless a condition is imposed.

There was no condition attached to the presentation of the pin and the law will not imply one as in the case of the engagement ring.

This article is based upon the law of Ohio. It is not intended to advise anyone on a specific problem. No person should ever attempt to apply or interpret any law without the advice of a lawyer.

Italian-Americans Aid Community

"Liberty, Unity and Duty" is the motto of the Italian Sons and Daughters of America, and Midland Lodge 181 has spent an active ten years meeting the obligations of that motto.

Efforts of Mrs. Margaret Migliore of Midland and Sylvester Greco of Aliquippa led to the formation of the unit in February 1955 with a membership of 55.

Alex Della Valle, now residing in San Jose, Calif., served as its first president and continued in that capacity for five years. In 1960, Mrs. Migliore was elected president and still holds the office, in addition to serving as national councilor for the past nine years.

Miss Connie Cellini has held the treasurer post since the first meeting in 1955.

The Midland Lodge began its activities the first year with a dinner - dance, paying homage to the late Dr. Daniel B. Suffoletta, in whose memory two hospital beds were donated to the Rochester General Hospital.

THE SECOND anniversary was observed with a testimonial dinner for the first president. The fifth anniversary celebration in 1960 was commemorated with a dinner-dance, in which five outstanding citizens of the community were honored and distinguished for their civic contributions and presented plaques and honorary memberships in the ISDA. Beaver County District Attorney Robert J. Masters, nephew of Mrs. Migliore, was honored at the lodge's ninth anniversary observance as the outstanding citizen of the county.

Also feted on the occasion was Judge Ralph F. Scalera, a member, and Mike Krivoshia, a fomer Midland High School football player who won honorable mention on the 1963 All - American High School football team. The lodge presented him with a plaque.

"Family Night" events are held once a year for honoring high school graduates, brides, and to couples celebrating silver wedding anniversaries.

The Midland lodge has supported many charitable projects conducted by the community.

In 1956, $1,350 was raised to supply four midget football teams with uniforms — a total of 44 boys — and in 1964, a contribution of $300 was presented to pastor of the Midland Presentation Catholic Church to outfit the parochial school football team with uniforms. A contribution was also made to the local "Dollars for Scholars" scholarship fund.

IN 1957, THE organization contributed $500 to the Presentation Church building fund. In order to lend financial aid for the Italian flood victims in Italy, a "tag day" was held and a check for $100 was sent for victims of the catastrophe.

The lodge has sponsored pilgrimage tours to a Canadian shrine and also to the Shrine of the Sorrowful Mother in Bellvue, Ohio. Annually the organization charters buses for baseball games, civic light operas and "Italian Days" at Kennywood Park in Pittsburgh.

The order was formed in May 1930 at Pittsburgh, and is currently headed by Judge Ruggero Aldisert of Pittsburgh, national president.

The membership of the Midland lodge is now 170, and its activities indicate a growing role in the social and civic programs of the community.

The U.S. Atlantic Fleet took up positions around Santiago harbor, but it was clear now that the Army would have to attack the rear of the city's garrison to force the Spanish ships to flee. Estimates of the enemy troops were as high as 200,000, but there were only about 80,000 Spanish on the island.

Preparations for embarking were pushed at the crowded inadequate port of Tampa, and by June 14, after much delay and amazing confusion, 32 transports carrying nearly 17,000 men put to sea, led by 300-pound Gen. William Shafter with orders to capture Santiago.

SIX DAYS LATER they arrived off the coast, although it took three more days to land the men.

"We were dressed in wool uniforms with full field packs and blanket rolls with heavy Krag rifles and ammunition," Thomson recalls of the day after the landing, and the march toward the hills back of the city.

"They were asking for insubordination to have us dress like that," he said, adding many of the men threw away much of their gear along the way.

Thomson said his outfit served as reinforcements for the "Rough Riders" in the engagement which cost eight lives.

The rest of the troops, slowed by illness and disorganization, were not ready for the assault toward Santiago until July 1 when an outpost at El Caney was hit and a stronger drive made upon entrenchments on San Juan Hill.

Thomson remembers the shelling, and the small arms firing with the Spanish, but said he did not see any of the enemy except as prisoners, and fortunately escaped injury.

SAN JUAN HILL was taken by Roosevelt's cavalry, but the attackers had suffered heavy losses, and there were stronger entrenchments on the way to Santiago. Shafter and Roosevelt were worried, noting the need for more men, artillery, food and ammunition.

But the Spanish were worse off — the army lacked ammunition and those in the city were starving. Admiral Cervera was ordered to escape from the harbor, despite his protests the move would be ruinous, his ships moved out on July 3.

A running sea fight began, and although the American fire was not particularly accurate — no serious hits affected the hulls of the Spanish cruisers — the shells set the wooden decks ablaze, and all of Cervera's ships were beached or sunk.

Spanish losses totaled nearly 400, the American casualties were one killed, one wounded. Credit on the navy victory was disputed — Admiral William Sampson did not arrive with his flagship until the battle was over. Commodore W. S. Schley was on the scene, but his orders were largely ignored by the captains.

ON JULY 16 Santiago surrendered — none too soon, for the American army was also hard - pressed for proper food and medical attention needed for the thousands felled by malaria and dysentery.

Hard tack was the main fare of the soldiers, and Thomson recalls going on a detail into Santiago for bread, a refreshing change from the rock-like biscuits. "It rained each day at some time," he said, adding he was made ill with malaria.

The conflict was over, the soldiers wanted to return, the need to leave the unhealthy conditions was obvious — but there was hesitation at Washington about the possible spread of disease in the U.S. by the returning troops.

Finally, the matter was revealed in the newspapers, and public pressure brought the return of the Army in August to Montauk Point, L. I., where, according to Thomson, a review was held of all the able troops.

The Elkton man remembers Roosevelt there, riding about on his horse, and also saw President McKinley who had come to honor the men.

Thomson did hospital duty for a while, then returned to Columbus and was discharged in the fall.

WITH THE PEACE, America made Cuba independent, obtained Puerto Rico and the distant Philippine Islands and had gained new stature among the nations of the world.

Thomson, who later worked in the steel mills at Pittsburgh and went to Midland in 1917 to work at the Crucible plant then moved to the Lisbon area to farm, said the soldiers were not fully aware of the issues in the fighting.

"We griped and talked about the fouled-up affairs in the army, just as soldiers did before and still do."

But when he stands up tall, a 6-foot-2, and looks off past the hills, you know he is remembering the far journey and the Flag whipping against palm trees.

Thomson, who resides with his daughter, Mrs. Sidney Scroggs, is among the dwindling few still alive who marched in the ranks with the Spanish - American veterans down through the years.

Today, the toll of American dead in the Viet Nam fighting is already more than the 285 killed in action in Cuba in 1898.

But no less then than now do the Stars and Stripes on the graves of those slain by the enemy on distant shores honor the memory of men who served their country and the ideals for which men have been dying since 1776.

Teddy Roosevelt's "Rough Riders," wearing blue shirts and khaki trousers, are urged toward San Juan Hill by an excited "TR" in this view by Post who died in 1956. These paintings were reproduced in an article about the artist in Life Magazine in July 1958.

Italian-Americans Aid Community

"Liberty, Unity and Duty" is the motto of the Italian Sons and Daughters of America, and Midland Lodge 181 has spent an active ten years meeting the obligations of that motto.

Efforts of Mrs. Margaret Migliore of Midland and Sylvester Greco of Aliquippa led to the formation of the unit in February 1955 with a membership of 55.

Alex Della Valle, now residing in San Jose, Calif., served as its first president and continued in that capacity for five years. In 1960, Mrs. Migliore was elected president and still holds the office, in addition to serving as national councilor for the past nine years.

Miss Connie Cellini has held the treasurer post since the first meeting in 1955.

The Midland Lodge began its activities the first year with a dinner - dance, paying homage to the late Dr. Daniel B. Suffoletta, in whose memory two hospital beds were donated to the Rochester General Hospital.

THE SECOND anniversary was observed with a testimonial dinner for the first president. The fifth anniversary celebration in 1960 was commemorated with a dinner-dance, in which five outstanding citizens of the community were honored and distinguished for their civic contributions and presented plaques and honorary memberships in the ISDA. Beaver County District Attorney Robert J. Masters, nephew of Mrs. Migliore, was honored at the lodge's ninth anniversary observance as the outstanding citizen of the county.

Also feted on the occasion was Judge Ralph F. Scalera, a member, and Mike Krivoshia, a fomer Midland High School football player who won honorable mention on the 1963 All - American High School football team. The lodge presented him with a plaque.

"Family Night" events are held once a year for honoring high school graduates, brides, and to couples celebrating silver wedding anniversaries.

The Midland lodge has supported many charitable projects conducted by the community.

In 1956, $1,350 was raised to supply four midget football teams with uniforms — a total of 44 boys — and in 1964, a contribution of $300 was presented to pastor of the Midland Presentation Catholic Church to outfit the parochial school football team with uniforms. A contribution was also made to the local "Dollars for Scholars" scholarship fund.

IN 1957, THE organization contributed $500 to the Presentation Church building fund. In order to lend financial aid for the Italian flood victims in Italy, a "tag day" was held and a check for $100 was sent for victims of the catastrophe.

The lodge has sponsored pilgrimage tours to a Canadian shrine and also to the Shrine of the Sorrowful Mother in Bellvue, Ohio. Annually the organization charters buses for baseball games, civic light operas and "Italian Days" at Kennywood Park in Pittsburgh.

The order was formed in May 1930 at Pittsburgh, and is currently headed by Judge Ruggero Aldisert of Pittsburgh, national president.

The membership of the Midland lodge is now 170, and its activities indicate a growing role in the social and civic programs of the community.

Stamps In The News

Nationalist China's Pavilion at the New York World's Fair can be seen via postage stamp, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. Two new stamps have been issued by the Formosa government to honor the second session of the fair and depicting its beautiful edifice there. One stamp shows the Unisphere surrounded by the fountain and pool. At the right is the Chinese Pavilion. The other stamp illustrates a picture entitled "100 birds paying tribute to Queen Phoenix" from a carved wood screen on display at the pavilion. It is symbolic of the visitors who come from all over the world to see the exhibition. The Unisphere is seen in the upper right corner of this stamp. Both new stamps are inscribed in Chinese characters only. They are available at your local stamp dealer.

Russia has honored its cosmonaut program and particularly the "man who walked in space" with a special new stamp and cacheted covers, reports Stamps Magazine's Harry Lindquist. The stamp depicts the spacecraft with one cosmonaut outside and one inside. The covers bear large portraits of the fliers.

Ethiopia has issued five new stamps showing local flowers. Depicted are the Ethiopian rose which has been referred to as the origin of all other roses, the Kosso tree found in the mountainous area, St. John's Worts which look like medals hanging from a tree, parrot tree, very common in the bushlands and the maskal flower which is the national flower of Ethiopia.

Visitors to the World's Fair will be able to see the U.S. Post Office's most famous mistake, the 24-cent airmail in invert, along with other postal rarities at the fair's post office. Free cachets are being issued there especially for the exhibition. The cachet envelope has a picture of the fair's post office and the Unisphere in the background. A feature of this post office is a narrated "Trip With Mr. ZIP" which takes visitors through the highly mechanized operation and explains how a modern post office works.

Pakistan has announced the issuance of two new stamps in its series of historical sites of the Muslim period. The 15p and the 50p stamps depict the Badshahi Mosque of Lahore in natural colors. Soon to be issued will be stamps for the International Cooperation Year and the ITU anniversary.

Cyprus has issued three commemorative stamps honoring their new Social Insurance Law. The new law provides for cash benefits for marriage, maternity, sickness, unemployment, widowhood, orphanhood, old age and death. It covers everyone gainfully employed in Cyprus. The 30 mills green and light brown is for "old age." The 45 m light blue and dark blue is for "accidents." The 75 m brown and beige is for "maternity."

You And The Law

Larry and Laura had decided after many months of going "steady" to tie the knot. They set the date as Larry presented his bride - to - be with a large diamond ring. Everybody was happy.

Laura's birthday was a few weeks later, so Larry decided to surprise her with another gift. This time it was an expensive diamond dress pin.

A FEW weeks later, Laura decided to surprise Larry. She told him the engagement was off and all the plans for the wedding were canceled. It took Larry a while to get over the shock, but when he did he asked for the return of the ring and the pin.

"Sorry, Larry," Laura said. "You gave me those after we were engaged. There were no strings attached to them. I don't have to give them back."

In similar cases, courts have ruled that the engagement ring is a symbol or pledge of the coming marriage and signifies that the one who wears it is engaged to marry the man who gave it to her. If the engagement is broken off, the ring should be returned, since it was a conditional gift.

IT WOULD BE rather awkward for a man to tell his bride-to-be that she must give back the ring if they do not get married. Even though no such express condition is imposed, however, the law will imply one because of the symbolic significance of the ring.

Larry was out of luck, however, in getting the pin returned. Although it was given after the engagement, the pin was only a token of the love and affection Larry had for Laura. It had no symbolic meaning. Under the law there is no consideration required for a gift. It is absolute once made, unless a condition is imposed.

There was no condition attached to the presentation of the pin and the law will not imply one as in the case of the engagement ring.

This article is based upon the law of Ohio. It is not intended to advise anyone on a specific problem. No person should ever attempt to apply or interpret any law without the advice of a lawyer.

Talks Slated In Chinaware Industry Pact

Union and management spokesmen are scheduled to meet Wednesday at Cleveland in a reopening of the current three-year working agreement covering about 1,800 employes of seven chinaware manufacturing firms:

The Sterling China Co. and Wellsville China Co., both at Wellsville, the Buffalo China Co. at Buffalo, N. Y., the Walker China Co. in Bedford, the Mayer China Co. in Beaver Falls, the Jackson China Co. at Falls Creek, Pa., and employes of the McNicol China Co. who are members of Local Union 99 in Clarksburg, W. Va.

The meetings will be held at the Sheraton Cleveland Hotel. Conferees of the local unions affected will hold a pre-conference caucus on Tuesday.

The present contract, signed late in 1962, is scheduled to expire next Dec. 1. It contains a clause allowing reopening by mutual consent any time after Dec. 1, 1964.

Plans for the chinaware negotiations were announced by the IBOP several months ago at the time it listed the details of negotiations with the U. S. Potters Association at Cincinnati on a new contract in the generalware branch of the industry.

The IBOP-USPA negotiations, concluded last month, led to a new two-year working agreement that granted a 13 - cent hourly "package" to about 4,000 in seven plants in the East Liverpool area and other parts of Ohio and Pennsylvania.

The principal provision was a general 4-cent hourly raise, effective next Dec. 1, and another 5-cent general raise that will become effective Dec. 1, 1966.

The generalware pact generally helps set the pattern for the chinaware agreement, and vice versa, when new contracts for the two branches are signed at about the same time.

E. L. Wheatley, president, will lead the IBOP delegation, which will be comprised of other members of the international Executive Board and conferees elected by local unions.

Talks Slated In Chinaware Industry Pact

Union and management spokesmen are scheduled to meet Wednesday at Cleveland in a reopening of the current three-year working agreement covering about 1,800 employes of seven chinaware manufacturing firms:

The Sterling China Co. and Wellsville China Co., both at Wellsville, the Buffalo China Co. at Buffalo, N. Y., the Walker China Co. in Bedford, the Mayer China Co. in Beaver Falls, the Jackson China Co. at Falls Creek, Pa., and employes of the McNicol China Co. who are members of Local Union 99 in Clarksburg, W. Va.

The meetings will be held at the Sheraton Cleveland Hotel. Conferees of the local unions affected will hold a pre-conference caucus on Tuesday.

The present contract, signed late in 1962, is scheduled to expire next Dec. 1. It contains a clause allowing reopening by mutual consent any time after Dec. 1, 1964.

Plans for the chinaware negotiations were announced by the IBOP several months ago at the time it listed the details of negotiations with the U. S. Potters Association at Cincinnati on a new contract in the generalware branch of the industry.

The IBOP-USPA negotiations, concluded last month, led to a new two-year working agreement that granted a 13 - cent hourly "package" to about 4,000 in seven plants in the East Liverpool area and other parts of Ohio and Pennsylvania.

The principal provision was a general 4-cent hourly raise, effective next Dec. 1, and another 5-cent general raise that will become effective Dec. 1, 1966.

The generalware pact generally helps set the pattern for the chinaware agreement, and vice versa, when new contracts for the two branches are signed at about the same time.

E. L. Wheatley, president, will lead the IBOP delegation, which will be comprised of other members of the international Executive Board and conferees elected by local unions.

Report Due At Meeting

County Survey Reveals Key Planning Work Data

Did you know nearly 30 per cent of the workers of Columbiana County are employed outside the county, compared with an average of 11 per cent such workers in other Ohio counties?

Some of the problems posed by this unique characteristic along with other problems and advantages of Columbiana County will be analyzed at a general meeting of public officials, business and industrial leader and others June 10 at Lisbon.

Eber Wright, Ashtabula County planning director and consultant to the Columbiana County unit, will summarize the survey and discuss its meanings for the future of the county.

The fact that Columbiana is a "bedroom county," in which many have homes but work elsewhere, has a serious effect on the economic development of the area.

The need for further development of industry is underscored by such statistics, commission members state.

Employment in retail establishments declined in the 20-year period from 1939 to 1958, but sales increased 3½ times.

Employment in manufacturing in the county dropped from 65 per cent of the firms participating in the Ohio Unemployment Compensation program to 55 per cent in the period 1943-63.

There are more than 5,226 acres of state - owned park, forest and wildlife areas in the county, with a considerable addition planned in the next few years.

The expenditures per person for public health in the county's five health districts are all below the Ohio average of $1.54 annually. East Liverpool's in 1963 was $1.18, Salem $1.45 and the county health district 64 cents.

More than half the houses in the county were constructed prior to 1929. Some 3,338 homes do not have public sewers or septic tanks.

Floyd Lower, president of the county unit, pointed out the county has a tremendous potential for future development because of its strategic location in the Youngstown - Pittsburgh-Steubenville complex, its highway, river and railroad links and its many natural resources.

Lower said the scheduled meeting at Lisbon should prove a significant event in the county, marking completion of the initial general survey of the commission which will provide guidelines for the county's future planning program.

Hays Introduces Amendment To Goods 'Dumping'

WASHINGTON — Rep. Wayne Hays announced today that he has introduced a newly-modified amendment to the "Anti-Dumping Act" of 1921 "which contains provisions urgently required to ensure effective operation of the act and vitally-needed relief against disruption of our markets by the dumping of foreign imports."

Hays said that the amendment is aimed at clarifying standards, plugging loopholes and improving procedures in the administration of the act.

He added that the bill is "consistent with the objective of the Anti-Dumping Act, which is to prevent foreign manufacturers from injuring domestic industries by selling their goods in U.S. markets at prices below those charged by the producer in the exporting country."

Hooded Order Continues Its Rally In Ohio

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—The Knights of Ku Klux Klan continued today to observe the Memorial Day weekend with a four-day rally they hope will signal the hooded order's resurgence in Ohio.

Both Imperial Wizard James R. Venable and another Atlanta klansman, H. G. Hill, recalled the old days as they talked Friday night to about 200 persons on Parkie Scott's farm near Oregonia eight miles from here.

The Klan spokesmen would not say exactly how strong the organization is in Ohio now. Venable told one newsman he knew "six klansmen in the state—six by name, that is."

In a speech Venable said the white man should "wake up" and go to the ballot boxes to elect officials who would maintain white supremacy. He denied the Klan is against Negroes but said "we just don't want any part of him (the Negro) socially on an equal basis."

Perhaps one-third or more of the audience in Scott's back yard consisted of newsmen and youths who appeared to be college students. Newsmen saw only five persons in Klan regalia, counting Venable and Hill.

Klan supporters said they expected 500 people tonight when a cross-burning is scheduled at 8 p.m. in a field next to the Interstate 71 superhighway.

Liberal Students At Ohio State U. Gaining Ground

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Liberal students at Ohio State University have gained ground: A faculty committee recommendation that the school's speakers rule be revised to permit the appearance of controversial speakers on campus.

The Faculty Advisory Committee said Friday it will recommend to university trustees at their July 8 meeting that provisions of the present rule preventing "subversive" speakers be eliminated.

The report also will recommend that University President Novice G. Fawcett's veto power over guest speakers be eliminated.

The committee said the recommended new policy should be construed "to mean that no topic or issue is too controversial for intelligent discussion on the campus."

The recommended policy would state that it must be made clear that "any views the speaker may express are his own and not those of the university" and that the host organization provide for a question period or other "critical evaluation" after the speech.

Substituted for the present provision giving the university president the final say over speakers is a recommendation that a faculty committee be named to decree conditions in any situation "attended by extreme emotional feeling."

The speakers rule has been the source of periodic student protests since it was established in 1951.

$25,000 Fire Hits Boats, Boathouses

CLEVELAND (AP) — A fire began in the motor of one small boat and spread to two other craft and two boathouses at the foot of Anderson Street Friday. Damage was estimated at $25,000 with extensive damage to the boathouses.

The blaze started in the boat of Thomas Hayes of Sandusky and completely destroyed it. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes, in the boat at the time, were not injured.

Since Civil War Erupted

$10 Million Sent By U.S. To Dominican Republic

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has sent more than $10 million worth of aid to the Dominican Republic since civil war erupted a month ago.

Money, food and medical supplies have been sent to aid the hungry, the ill and the wounded — and to keep the government functioning while rival factions struggle to take charge.

U.S. officials won't say whether — or how — the aid is being used to help achieve the announced U.S. goal in the Dominican Republic — a Communist-free, coalition government.

The United States has declared its neutrality in the current struggle between rebels and a military-civilian junta. But politics aside, said Secretary of State Dean Rusk, the United States had to make sure Dominican life and government did not disintegrate into chaos.

President Johnson added in his Baylor University speech Friday: "As peace returns to the Dominican people and as a broad base is laid for a new Dominican government responsive to the people's will, the United States will be prepared to join in full measure in the massive task of reconstruction and in the hopeful work of lasting economic progress."

The main channel for pouring in U.S. funds for one politically sensitive purpose — paying salaries of Dominican government employes — is the Organization of American States.

OAS Secretary-General Jose Mora — in Santo Domingo to mediate the civil war — has $6 million from the United States to keep paychecks going to Dominican government workers, whether they be in the junta or the rebel area. Inter-American troops have occupied the republic's Central Bank to make sure the funds don't fall into the wrong hands.

U.S. authorities figure this is the best way of keeping vital government services going without violating official neutrality toward the feuding political factions. The junta leader, Brig Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera, nevertheless denounced the move as "frank intervention" in the country's internal affairs.

Imbert reportedly has asked the United States for $3.5 million for government payrolls over the next two weeks. Washington has not confirmed receiving this request, but its answer has been through the OAS action.

About half of the $6 million has been spent. The OAS is in the process of distributing the rest.

In addition to financial aid, an Agency for International Development official said the United States has sent food worth $4,234,977 to the Dominican Republic in an emergency stepup of its assistance program.

All told, 26,752 tons of food have been dispatched since the civil war erupted. Among the surplus commodities sent were milk, beans, flower, rice, corn and vegetable oil.

In addition, medical supplies and personnel have been sent to the Dominican Republic by the United States, the Organization of American States and some Latin-American nations.

Experts Report Operation Of Rocket Reactor

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Scientists report they have operated a Nerva nuclear space rocket reactor three times for a total running time of 68 minutes.

The reactor ran for 43 minutes in the latest test Friday — but not at full power.

A spokesman for the nuclear rocket development station said a full power run May 20 generated 1,100 megawatts, equivalent to 55,000 pounds of thrust.

Slated for an initial test in 60 days is an advanced reactor, Phoebus I, which is designed for a thrust range of 200,000 pounds. Generated over long periods, such sustained thrust could eventually drive spacecraft to planets beyond the reach of brief-burning chemical rockets.

Both were northbound when Sprout halted to make a left turn. Hurst was being held today at the Columbiana County Jail at Lisbon.

Little Hope Held For 400 In Mine Blast

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A government spokesman said today there is little hope of anyone escaping alive from the shattered Bhori coal mine in eastern India where an explosion killed an estimated 250 to 400 men.

Mine officials sealed some air intakes in an effort to stifle the flames that erupted after the blast had ripped through three levels of the mine before dawn Friday.

Flames and gases drove rescue teams back to the surface. With many exits covered by fire fighters, any survivors have little chance of escaping, a government spokesman said.

The official acknowledged he was "taking the low figure" in estimating that 250 men were dead. Labor union leaders put it at 400.

The blast came at shift changing time and officials could not say exactly how many men from the old shift had left the mine or how many of the relief had entered.

Teams wearing gas masks entered the mine about 12 hours after the explosion, the labor Ministry reported.

The rescuers pushed into three levels hit by the blast 150 to 200 feet below the surface but they withdrew when the flames broke out.

"Nobody who was working down there has yet escaped," the government spokesman said.

Unless the flames can be extinguished, he said, it is possible the mine will be sealed tightly.

If a government is correct in its estimate that at least 250 men are dead, the Bhori colliery explosion would be the worst mine disaster in India's history.

Report Due At Meeting

County Survey Reveals Key Planning Work Data

Did you know nearly 30 per cent of the workers of Columbiana County are employed outside the county, compared with an average of 11 per cent such workers in other Ohio counties?

Some of the problems posed by this unique characteristic along with other problems and advantages of Columbiana County will be analyzed at a general meeting of public officials, business and industrial leader and others June 10 at Lisbon.

Eber Wright, Ashtabula County planning director and consultant to the Columbiana County unit, will summarize the survey and discuss its meanings for the future of the county.

The fact that Columbiana is a "bedroom county," in which many have homes but work elsewhere, has a serious effect on the economic development of the area.

The need for further development of industry is underscored by such statistics, commission members state.

Employment in retail establishments declined in the 20-year period from 1939 to 1958, but sales increased 3½ times.

Employment in manufacturing in the county dropped from 65 per cent of the firms participating in the Ohio Unemployment Compensation program to 55 per cent in the period 1943-63.

There are more than 5,226 acres of state - owned park, forest and wildlife areas in the county, with a considerable addition planned in the next few years.

The expenditures per person for public health in the county's five health districts are all below the Ohio average of $1.54 annually. East Liverpool's in 1963 was $1.18, Salem $1.45 and the county health district 64 cents.

More than half the houses in the county were constructed prior to 1929. Some 3,338 homes do not have public sewers or septic tanks.

Floyd Lower, president of the county unit, pointed out the county has a tremendous potential for future development because of its strategic location in the Youngstown - Pittsburgh-Steubenville complex, its highway, river and railroad links and its many natural resources.

Lower said the scheduled meeting at Lisbon should prove a significant event in the county, marking completion of the initial general survey of the commission which will provide guidelines for the county's future planning program.

Hays Introduces Amendment To Goods 'Dumping'

WASHINGTON — Rep. Wayne Hays announced today that he has introduced a newly-modified amendment to the "Anti-Dumping Act" of 1921 "which contains provisions urgently required to ensure effective operation of the act and vitally-needed relief against disruption of our markets by the dumping of foreign imports."

Hays said that the amendment is aimed at clarifying standards, plugging loopholes and improving procedures in the administration of the act.

He added that the bill is "consistent with the objective of the Anti-Dumping Act, which is to prevent foreign manufacturers from injuring domestic industries by selling their goods in U.S. markets at prices below those charged by the producer in the exporting country."

Hooded Order Continues Its Rally In Ohio

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—The Knights of Ku Klux Klan continued today to observe the Memorial Day weekend with a four-day rally they hope will signal the hooded order's resurgence in Ohio.

Both Imperial Wizard James R. Venable and another Atlanta klansman, H. G. Hill, recalled the old days as they talked Friday night to about 200 persons on Parkie Scott's farm near Oregonia eight miles from here.

The Klan spokesmen would not say exactly how strong the organization is in Ohio now. Venable told one newsman he knew "six klansmen in the state—six by name, that is."

In a speech Venable said the white man should "wake up" and go to the ballot boxes to elect officials who would maintain white supremacy. He denied the Klan is against Negroes but said "we just don't want any part of him (the Negro) socially on an equal basis."

Perhaps one-third or more of the audience in Scott's back yard consisted of newsmen and youths who appeared to be college students. Newsmen saw only five persons in Klan regalia, counting Venable and Hill.

Klan supporters said they expected 500 people tonight when a cross-burning is scheduled at 8 p.m. in a field next to the Interstate 71 superhighway.

Liberal Students At Ohio State U. Gaining Ground

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Liberal students at Ohio State University have gained ground: A faculty committee recommendation that the school's speakers rule be revised to permit the appearance of controversial speakers on campus.

The Faculty Advisory Committee said Friday it will recommend to university trustees at their July 8 meeting that provisions of the present rule preventing "subversive" speakers be eliminated.

The report also will recommend that University President Novice G. Fawcett's veto power over guest speakers be eliminated.

The committee said the recommended new policy should be construed "to mean that no topic or issue is too controversial for intelligent discussion on the campus."

The recommended policy would state that it must be made clear that "any views the speaker may express are his own and not those of the university" and that the host organization provide for a question period or other "critical evaluation" after the speech.

Substituted for the present provision giving the university president the final say over speakers is a recommendation that a faculty committee be named to decree conditions in any situation "attended by extreme emotional feeling."

$25,000 Fire Hits Boats, Boathouses

CLEVELAND (AP) — A fire began in the motor of one small boat and spread to two other craft and two boathouses at the foot of Anderson Street Friday. Damage was estimated at $25,000 with extensive damage to the boathouses.

The blaze started in the boat of Thomas Hayes of Sandusky and completely destroyed it. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes, in the boat at the time, were not injured.

Since Civil War Erupted

$10 Million Sent By U.S. To Dominican Republic

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has sent more than $10 million worth of aid to the Dominican Republic since civil war erupted a month ago.

Money, food and medical supplies have been sent to aid the hungry, the ill and the wounded — and to keep the government functioning while rival factions struggle to take charge.

U.S. officials won't say whether — or how — the aid is being used to help achieve the announced U.S. goal in the Dominican Republic — a Communist-free, coalition government.

The United States has declared its neutrality in the current struggle between rebels and a military-civilian junta. But politics aside, said Secretary of State Dean Rusk, the United States had to make sure Dominican life and government did not disintegrate into chaos.

President Johnson added in his Baylor University speech Friday: "As peace returns to the Dominican people and as a broad base is laid for a new Dominican government responsive to the people's will, the United States will be prepared to join in full measure in the massive task of reconstruction and in the hopeful work of lasting economic progress."

The main channel for pouring in U.S. funds for one politically sensitive purpose — paying salaries of Dominican government employes — is the Organization of American States.

OAS Secretary-General Jose Mora — in Santo Domingo to mediate the civil war — has $6 million from the United States to keep paychecks going to Dominican government workers, whether they be in the junta or the rebel area. Inter-American troops have occupied the republic's Central Bank to make sure the funds don't fall into the wrong hands.

U.S. authorities figure this is the best way of keeping vital government services going without violating official neutrality toward the feuding political factions. The junta leader, Brig Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera, nevertheless denounced the move as "frank intervention" in the country's internal affairs.

Imbert reportedly has asked the United States for $3.5 million for government payrolls over the next two weeks. Washington has not confirmed receiving this request, but its answer has been through the OAS action.

About half of the $6 million has been spent. The OAS is in the process of distributing the rest.

In addition to financial aid, an Agency for International Development official said the United States has sent food worth $4,234,977 to the Dominican Republic in an emergency stepup of its assistance program.

All told, 26,752 tons of food have been dispatched since the civil war erupted. Among the surplus commodities sent were milk, beans, flower, rice, corn and vegetable oil.

In addition, medical supplies and personnel have been sent to the Dominican Republic by the United States, the Organization of American States and some Latin-American nations.

Experts Report Operation Of Rocket Reactor

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Scientists report they have operated a Nerva nuclear space rocket reactor three times for a total running time of 68 minutes.

The reactor ran for 43 minutes in the latest test Friday — but not at full power.

A spokesman for the nuclear rocket development station said a full power run May 20 generated 1,100 megawatts, equivalent to 55,000 pounds of thrust.

Slated for an initial test in 60 days is an advanced reactor, Phoebus I, which is designed for a thrust range of 200,000 pounds. Generated over long periods, such sustained thrust could eventually drive spacecraft to planets beyond the reach of brief-burning chemical rockets.

Schofield Again Plays Key Role As Giants Top Reds

Bucs Whip Mets To Vacate Celler

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Schofield, who hasn't been able to locate a place to live in San Francisco, continued to remain right at home on the field for the Giants, again playing a key role Friday night in a 12-7 victory over Cincinnati.

Acquired from Pittsburgh in a straight shortstop swap for Jose Pagan, Schofield went shopping for a place to live Thursday, bumped into the landlady and was almost bowled over by the price tag on her living quarters.

Schofield adds to his value every day with the Giants. He has hit safely in all six games for his new mates, building a .364 batting average.

And against the Reds, he led off with his first homer of the season, kept Cincinnati from moving ahead in the fifth inning with a spectacular fielding play and then got a seven-run rally started in the sixth inning by walking and scoring the run that put the Giants ahead to stay.

Elsewhere in the National League, Milwaukee knocked off the front-running Los Angeles Dodgers 5-4, Houston edged St. Louis 3-2 in 12 innings, Philadelphia downed the Chicago Cubs 3-1 and Pittsburgh made it seven in a row with a 6-1 triumph over the New York Mets.

Besides Schofield, Jim Hart also homered for the Giants while John Edwards and Tommy Harper connected for the Reds. But the decisive fireworks came as the Giants sent 11 men to the plate in the sixth.

Schofield started it by walking with one out, coming around to break the 4-4 tie on singles by Jesus Alou and Willie McCovey. Hal Lanier stroked a key two-run single during the uprising and Tony Perez let in two runs by fumbling a grounder by winning pitcher Bob Shaw.

The Dodgers built a 4-0 lead against new Milwaukee pitcher Ken Johnson, but the Braves came back with two runs in the fourth and then put it away against Claude Osteen, 3-5, with a three-run fifth.

A walk to Hank Aaron and singles by Joe Torre and Gene Oliver produced one run. Eddie Mathews then walked and Mack Jones stroked a two-run single that put Milwaukee ahead to stay.

Cardinals starter Ray Sadecki limited Houston to five hits and had a 2-1 lead until Bob Aspromonte led off the ninth with a homer.

The Pirates moved out of the NL cellar and the Mets moved in when Bill Mazeroski's sacrifice fly and Willie Stargell's three-run homer produced a four-run eighth inning against Warren Spahn. Bob Veale, 5-2, got the victory with a five-hitter.

Ohio State Faces Detroit In NCAA District Finals

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The NCAA District 4 baseball title goes on the line today as Ohio State and Detroit meet in what must be a double-or-nothing effort by the Motor City Collegians.

Detroit, with one loss in tournament play, must win two from the undefeated Buckeyes for the championship and a berth in the NCAA World Series at Omaha June 7-12. Ohio State needs just one triumph to win the laurels.

Ohio State moved into the finals with a 4-2 victory Friday over Ohio University, snapping the Bobcats' winning streak at 22 before Detroit nailed the Bobcats' coffin, 8-7.

Detroit trailed Ohio U. 6-0 after seven innings, but the Titans scored seven runs in the eighth and broke a 7-7 deadlock in the ninth.

Ohio Schoolboys Eye 4 Titles Today

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State high school championships in tennis, golf, baseball and track were to be settled on the Ohio State University campus today.

The spring sports extravaganza winds up two days of activity in three of the sports. The big track show, trimmed to semi-final and final events by regional action last weekend, unfurls a 14-event program in both Class AA and A divisions.

Heisler, a 16-year-old junior, tamed Ohio State's treacherous 6,705-yard par 72 Scarlet layout with a nifty one-under 71 that put him in the lead for medalist honors.

The 5-foot-9, 155-pound Heisler was the only player in the field of 119 to master par. He had an eagle 3 on the 485-yard No. 14.

Heisler, who won the Ohio junior 15-and-under title last year, hadn't much breathing room. Dave Anderson of Wooster was only two strokes back at 73, and at 74 were Ross Bartschy Jr., of Upper Arlington, last year's medalist, and Dale Drusoe of Cleveland Benedictine.

Upper Arlington took almost an insurmountable lead in team play, posting a 309 total at the halfway mark, some 12 strokes better than runnerup Kettering Fairmont West. Findlay was third with 324 while last year's titlist, Barberton Norton, was in a three-way deadlock for fourth with 325.

In tennis, the favorites all won. In singles matches today, topseeded Randy Wertz of Toledo DeVilbiss, who lost in the finale a year ago, battled fourth-seeded Chick Hawley of Cincinnati Princeton.

In the other semifinal match, No. 2 seeded Paul Mitchell of Worthington tangled with either third-seeded Chuck Parsons of Springfield North or Nick Lidskog of Mansfield Madison. Parsons and Lidskog each had won one set Friday when darkness halted their match. It was to be resumed this morning.

The top-seeded doubles team, Ron Hollinger and Terry Brown of Mansfield Senior, faced Joe Dehner and George Mehl of Cincinnati Withrow in one match while the second-seeded duo, Fred Carpenter and Lee Adams of Upper Arlington, engaged George Martinsen and Dennis Lefond of Euclid.

In small school play, Lucasville Valley crushed Powhatan 9-0 and Versailles squeezed by Deshler 2-1 to reach the finale.

McVay Twirls 1-Hitter For Veteran Glass

Randy McVay hurled a one-hitter Friday as Veteran Plate Glass whipped Traveler's Hotel, 9-1, in a Little League contest. Medics trounced Burbick's, 10-3, behind Rick Aaron's three-hitter.

McVay, en route to his victory, fanned 13 and clubbed a double and a single to aid his own cause. Rick Watson smashed a double and two singles for Veteran Plate. Wilson's single robbed McVay of a no-hitter.

Aaron also was a tormentor at the plate, hammering a triple and a single. Dave Rogers ripped three doubles for Medics, while Rick Welsch slapped a double and a single and Keith Stewart a double.

In a third game, Vernon Dell nosed out Golden Star, 15-14, as Joey Henderson received credit for the victory. Jerry Coplin was the loser.

33 Drivers Take Final Tuneups For '500' Race

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Three hours of carburetion tests Saturday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway was the last chance for 33 drivers to handle their cars on the track before the 49th 500-mile race Monday.

In the past, this period has been largely an extra practice, but the tests have a closer meaning this year.

Many crews, particularly those with new Ford engines, have been trying to find a way to send their cars the full 500 miles on the two mandatory pit stops.

Some mechanics have admitted privately that if they use alcohol, three pit stops will be necessary. A possible solution is to use gasoline but that would mean sacrificing horsepower and would also be adding a fire hazard.

The carburetion test period meant much to two 500 veterans, Parnelli Jones, Torrance, Calif., and Lloyd Ruby, Wichita Falls, Tex.

Both got in trouble and their cars hit the wall after they had qualified, causing heavy damage to both. Both were expected to be in shape for the last warmup.

The apparent readiness of the two cars seemingly dissipated the last chance for veteran Rodger Ward to make the race. A starter in 14 straight 500s, former winner Ward was the first alternate on the basis of his 34th fastest qualifying time.

Ward apparently was resigned to not racing, since it was announced Friday he will do the commentary on a closed-circuit television showing of the speed classic.

With the approach of the race, the city's 500 festival, in progress since May 1, neared its climax — the giant pre-race parade.

The procession of 33 elaborate floats, hundreds of bands and marching units and carloads of television, film and sports celebrities and other notables will wind through downtown Indianapolis at twilight Saturday along a route lined with 37,000 reserved seats in bleachers.

Radatz Regains Old Relief Form

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Robinson returned to the Baltimore line-up after a 19-day absence as the Orioles divided a doubleheader with the Los Angeles Angels Friday night, losing the first game 3-1 before taking the nightcap 3-0.

The American League's Most Valuable Player last season, Robinson suffered a broken right thumb when hit by a pitch May 8. He played part-time the next day but hadn't appeared in a game since then.

Against the Angels in the opener, he failed to get a hit in three trips to the plate. The rust wore off quickly, however, and he started the second game with a second-inning single.

Then, in the fourth, the ace third baseman doubled across two runs and scored the Orioles' other run on Jerry Adair's single.

Radatz, the AL's Fireman of the Year in 1964, had been having more than a little trouble this season prior to the last three days. Consistently ineffective, the 6-foot-5 veteran saw his earned run average soar to 7.43 two weeks ago.

With 5 1-3 innings of shutout relieving the past three days, though, Radatz has sliced his ERA to 6.19.

He relieved Jim Lonborg Friday night in the seventh inning with two runs in, two Athletics on base and one out. He got out of the jam and finished the game with one hit allowed and seven batters struck out.

George Brunet pitched a two-hitter for Los Angeles in the first-game victory over Baltimore while Steve Barber came back in the nightcap and held the Angels to three hits.

Hank Aguirre pitched a two-hitter as Detroit edged Cleveland 1-0, and Chicago trimmed New York 2-0 behind Joe Horlen's six-hit hurling. Minnesota defeated Washington 4-1 in the first game of a scheduled doubleheader. Rain cancleed the second.

Felix Mantilla supported Lonborg and Radatz with a two-run homer in the third inning and a run-scoring single in the eighth. Lenny Green and Ed Bressoud added homers for the Red Sox.

Don Wert's eighth-inning homer off Cleveland's Ralph Terry gave Aguirre his fifth victory against two defeats. Terry, 4-3, gave up just five hits.

The White Sox were held hitless by Bill Stafford until the sixth inning. Then, Johnny Romano led off with a single, moved to second on a sacrifice and scored as Don Buford bounced a single off the glove of first baseman Joe Pepitone.

Tony Oliva drove in three Minnesota runs with a single and a homer. Bob Allison also homered for the Twins. Dave Boswell held the Senators to one hit through 5 2-3 innings until he was forced to leave the game with a blistered finger.

Giants' Bob Shaw Says He Doesn't Use 'Spitter'

By RON BERGMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pitcher Bob Shaw of the San Francisco Giants wants this spread around the National League:

"The answer is no," says the 31-year-old right-hander when asked if he throws the wet one.

"But it's nice to have the other teams think I am when I'm not."

Shaw went the route Friday and took the Cincinnati Reds, 12-7.

Cincinnati second baseman Pete Rose objected in the ninth inning to the humidity of Shaw's deliveries. He asked plate umpire Doug Harvey to look at the baseball. 6

The next sinker pitch brought Reds' Manager Dick Sisler storming out of the dugout. This time Shaw threw the ball over everyone's head to the backstop when Harvey asked to see it.

Moisture may or may not have been on the baseball Friday night, but it most certainly was in the air. Great clouds of fog were blown over the field by 30-mile-an-hour winds that brought the temperature down to the mid-40s.

"I don't think Shaw throws a spitter," said Rose afterward. "I know Shaw throws a spitter."

"Everyone knows Shaw throws the spitter," said Sisler. "But he's not the only one in the league. Heck, we might even have a pitcher who does."

2 Hammondsville Teams Post Wins In HIH League

Two Hammondsville teams chalked up victories in the HIH Junior League Friday afternoon, with the Irondale Pirates winning in a third game.

Hammondsville's Red Sox walloped the Irondale Indians, 14-1, behind the five-hit pitching of Tim Furbee who fanned eight. Randy Penn took the loss.

The Hammondsville Yankees nosed out the Highlandtown Apaches, 8-6, with Roger Minor on the mound. Charles Gamble was the losing twirler.

Early Wynn Admitted

Trainer Wally Bock said in Detroit he thought at first Wynn was suffering from a virus attack. But he indicated later it appeared more serious and "will require some lab work to determine what it is."

Bucs Whip Mets To Vacate Celler

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The next time Dick Schofield's phone rings, it may be that little old landlady with the $700-a-month place to rent giving it another try.

Schofield, who hasn't been able to locate a place to live in San Francisco, continued to remain right at home on the field for the Giants, again playing a key role Friday night in a 12-7 victory over Cincinnati.

Acquired from Pittsburgh in a straight shortstop swap for Jose Pagan, Schofield went shopping for a place to live Thursday, bumped into the landlady and was almost bowled over by the price tag on her living quarters.

Schofield adds to his value every day with the Giants. He has hit safely in all six games for his new mates, building a .364 batting average.

And against the Reds, he led off with his first homer of the season, kept Cincinnati from moving ahead in the fifth inning with a spectacular fielding play and then got a seven-run rally started in the sixth inning by walking and scoring the run that put the Giants ahead to stay.

Elsewhere in the National League, Milwaukee knocked off the front-running Los Angeles Dodgers 5-4, Houston edged St. Louis 3-2 in 12 innings, Philadelphia downed the Chicago Cubs 3-1 and Pittsburgh made it seven in a row with a 6-1 triumph over the New York Mets.

Besides Schofield, Jim Hart also homered for the Giants while John Edwards and Tommy Harper connected for the Reds. But the decisive fireworks came as the Giants sent 11 men to the plate in the sixth.

Schofield started it by walking with one out, coming around to break the 4-4 tie on singles by Jesus Alou and Willie McCovey. Hal Lanier stroked a key two-run single during the uprising and Tony Perez let in two runs by fumbling a grounder by winning pitcher Bob Shaw.

The Dodgers built a 4-0 lead against new Milwaukee pitcher Ken Johnson, but the Braves came back with two runs in the fourth and then put it away against Claude Osteen, 3-5, with a three-run fifth.

A walk to Hank Aaron and singles by Joe Torre and Gene Oliver produced one run. Eddie Mathews then walked and Mack Jones stroked a two-run single that put Milwaukee ahead to stay.

Jim Wynn's single and a double by Walt Bond accounted for the Astros' winning run in the 12th as Jim Owens squared his record at 2-2 with three innings of perfect relief pitching.

Cardinals starter Ray Sadecki limited Houston to five hits and had a 2-1 lead until Bob Aspromonte led off the ninth with a homer.

The Pirates moved out of the NL cellar and the Mets moved in when Bill Mazeroski's sacrifice fly and Willie Stargell's three-run homer produced a four-run eighth inning against Warren Spahn. Bob Veale, 5-2, got the victory with a five-hitter.

Ohio State Faces Detroit In NCAA District Finals

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The NCAA District 4 baseball title goes on the line today as Ohio State and Detroit meet in what must be a double-or-nothing effort by the Motor City Collegians.

Detroit, with one loss in tournament play, must win two from the undefeated Buckeyes for the championship and a berth in the NCAA World Series at Omaha June 7-12. Ohio State needs just one triumph to win the laurels.

Ohio State moved into the finals with a 4-2 victory Friday over Ohio University, snapping the Bobcats' winning streak at 22 before Detroit nailed the Bobcats' coffin, 8-7.

Detroit trailed Ohio U. 6-0 after seven innings, but the Titans scored seven runs in the eighth and broke a 7-7 deadlock in the ninth.

Ohio Schoolboys Eye 4 Titles Today

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State high school championships in tennis, golf, baseball and track were to be settled on the Ohio State University campus today.

The spring sports extravaganza winds up two days of activity in three of the sports. The big track show, trimmed to semi-final and final events by regional action last weekend, unfurls a 14-event program in both Class AA and A divisions.

Heisler, a 16-year-old junior, tamed Ohio State's treacherous 6,705-yard par 72 Scarlet layout with a nifty one-under 71 that put him in the lead for medalist honors.

The 5-foot-9, 155-pound Heisler was the only player in the field of 119 to master par. He had an eagle 3 on the 485-yard No. 14.

Heisler, who won the Ohio junior 15-and-under title last year, hadn't much breathing room. Dave Anderson of Wooster was only two strokes back at 73, and at 74 were Ross Bartschy Jr., of Upper Arlington, last year's medalist, and Dale Drusoe of Cleveland Benedictine.

Upper Arlington took almost an insurmountable lead in team play, posting a 309 total at the halfway mark, some 12 strokes better than runnerup Kettering Fairmont West. Findlay was third with 324 while last year's titlist, Barberton Norton, was in a three-way deadlock for fourth with 325.

In tennis, the favorites all won. In singles matches today, topseeded Randy Wertz of Toledo DeVilbiss, who lost in the finale a year ago, battled fourth-seeded Chick Hawley of Cincinnati Princeton.

In the other semifinal match, No. 2 seeded Paul Mitchell of Worthington tangled with either third-seeded Chuck Parsons of Springfield North or Nick Lidskog of Mansfield Madison. Parsons and Lidskog each had won one set Friday when darkness halted their match. It was to be resumed this morning.

Cincinnati second baseman Pete Rose objected in the ninth inning to the humidity of Shaw's deliveries. He asked plate umpire Doug Harvey to look at the baseball. 6

The next sinker pitch brought Reds' Manager Dick Sisler storming out of the dugout. This time Shaw threw the ball over everyone's head to the backstop when Harvey asked to see it.

Moisture may or may not have been on the baseball Friday night, but it most certainly was in the air. Great clouds of fog were blown over the field by 30-mile-an-hour winds that brought the temperature down to the mid-40s.

"I don't think Shaw throws a spitter," said Rose afterward. "I know Shaw throws a spitter."

"Everyone knows Shaw throws the spitter," said Sisler. "But he's not the only one in the league. Heck, we might even have a pitcher who does."

Early Wynn Admitted

Trainer Wally Bock said in Detroit he thought at first Wynn was suffering from a virus attack. But he indicated later it appeared more serious and "will require some lab work to determine what it is."

Application Forms Offered In Red Cross Swim Classes

Application forms for the annual summer swimming classes of the East Liverpool Area Red Cross Chapter are available at the chapter's office in the Mary Patterson Memorial, Donald Ross, director of the water safety program, has announced.

Because only 400 can be registered for each session, Ross urged those intending to enroll to obtain applications as soon as possible.

The response for water safety aides has been most gratifying, Ross said, but additional aides are needed.

Those signing to take training June 14-18, are Janet Andrews, Betty Chetwyn, Keith Steiner, Andy Hughes, Linda Porter, Myra Nottingham, Joe Walters, Susie and Sandy Hargraves, Greg Pierce, Sue Stone, Linda Gilbert, Stephen Picken, Mrs. Eunice Petkovich, Mrs. Eleanor Jolly, Mrs. Marwynne Strafy, Mrs. Kathleen Hissom of East Liverpool and Sharon Penn of Wellsville.

After the week of training, the water safety aides will assist with the teaching of swimming and life saving classes. Ross asks that anyone who has completed the Senior or Junior Life Saving course, who is 14 or over, and who would be willing to help, to call the Red Cross office.

Mrs. Ralph Musuraca has been named as chairman of the Swimmer Aide Committee. She is recruiting women who will help during the program with clerical work and other duties around the pool.

The first swimming session will be from June 21 to July 9; the second from July 12 to July 30. During each three-week session, classes will be in beginner, advanced beginner, intermediate, swimmer and advanced swimmer courses for both children and adults. Senior and junior life saving courses also will be given.

Snatchers Of Wigs Are Hairy Problem

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Wig snatchers are becoming a hairy problem for Atlanta police.

Sgt. W. A. Jones said Friday that thieves are yanking wigs off both men and women.

One man was arrested on larceny charges after police said he grabbed a $189 wig from the head of a young woman as she walked along a street. Another woman told police she dozed momentarily on the porch of her home and when she awoke, her wig was gone.

LISBON — Noreta McQuire of 317 E. 7th St., Salem, forfeited a $15 bond Friday in County Judge J. L. MacDonald's court when she failed to appear for a scheduled hearing after being cited for fishing in Guilford Lake without a license. She was cited by James Kelley, state game protector.

Joe Kirkwood Holds Lead In Festival Open

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The major casualties in the Speedway Festival Open Golf Tournament, moved this year from the speedway course to longer and trickier Greentree Country Club, do not include old man par or Joe Kirkwood Jr., the leader at the halfway mark with a 139.

Only 15 players including Kirkwood, bettered Greentree's 71-71—142 par for 36 holes, two others matched it. Nobody beat par by more than three strokes, for either 18 or 36 holes, and only three players put together two subpar rounds.

Only Kirkwood could go three under par for the 36 holes Thursday and Friday, and he needed the two days to get that edge with 69-70—139.

Tommy Bolt went three under Thursday with a 68, but he slipped to 73 Friday and was in a nine-way tie for seventh place.

Student Faces Hearing In Beating Of Coed

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — An exchange student from Africa at Kent State University will have a hearing July 14 on a charge of aggravated assault in the beating of a Kent coed. Samuel Rohio of Kenya pleaded innocent when arraigned Friday in Municipal Court.

Judge Lester Campbell set the hearing and reduced Rohio's bond from $5,000 to $3,500. Bond was posted, and the student was released. Rohio, 26, was arrested after Miss Teresa Harpe, 22, of Steubenville was beaten while walking with Rohio along the Cuyahoga River bank near downtown Kent May 12.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I remove a glass stopper that has become tightly stuck in a bottle?

A.—Try putting a few drops of glycerin around the stopper and letting stand for a few hours. The glycerin works down around the stopper and loosens it for easy removal.

Backing Auto Hits Another

A teen-age driver was cited by police Friday night after his backing auto struck a parked car on Ravine St. and damaged property at a nearby home.

Eugene A. Wright, 19, whose addresses were listed by police as 1325 Main St., Wellsville, or Beaver Falls, was accused of improper backing. He posted a $32.50 bond for a hearing in Municipal Court.

Wright told officers he backed his convertible to look into a pet store in the 200 block of Ravine St. and failed to see the parked 1955 auto of E. Irene Dopler, 810 St. George St.

Buswell had stopped on Elizabeth St. when his 1965 sedan was hit in the rear by a car operated by Nathaniel Hayes, 47, of 1173 Harker Ave., who was driving a 1963 sedan owned by Mike Turk, Inc. The mishap was timed at 2:40 p. m.

Hayes told police he rounded a bend and saw Buswell's halted car and applied his brakes, but skidded into the rear end of the other auto.

A mishap at 4:08 p. m. at E. 5th and Market Sts. involved cars operated by Emma Lou Freeman, 32, of 744 Sophia St. and Lawrence Gill, 19, of R. D. 1.

Reporting the accident to police headquarters, Gill said his foot slipped off the brake into the gas pedal and his car struck the rear of the Freeman auto, which was halted at the intersection.

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP)—Ottawa County Common Pleas Court awarded a $2,250 judgment Friday against an airport operator accused of negligence in an airplane accident. The suit was filed by I. A. The Licking County men alleged that the private plane in which they were flying sank in the mud while making a landing at Put-In-Bay Airport, flipping over. The airport operator denied the allegation, saying the accident happened because the plane was taxiing too fast.

Much of the visit will be devoted to vacationing, but Mrs. Johnson's main mission is to deliver the commencement address June 3 at the first graduation exercise of the College of the Virgin Islands.

Plenty Of Troubles

Johnson, Home In Texas, Plagued By Bad Weather

Johnson, who flew to the ranch Thursday night for the Memorial Day weekend, had plenty of weather troubles Friday. Because of torrential rains and a low ceiling, the President had to fly by helicopter to and from Baylor University commencement exercises in Waco, 120 miles northeast of here. He had hoped to make the trip in his Air Force Jetstar transport.

The weather also altered Johnson's plans for delivering the Baylor commencement address. He wanted to use a teleprompter for the speech, broadcast nationally by television and radio networks, but the necessary equipment got hung up in the clouds aboard a chartered airliner bringing the White House press corps to Waco.

Because of rains that caused flash floods in the area, the plane was able to land only after Johnson had arrived at the ceremony. He read a typed copy of the speech.

Johnson's first stab at relaxation during the weekend also was affected by the weather. After the Baylor event, he flew to Lyndon B. Johnson Lake — formerly Ganiter Shoals Lake — north of here for an outing. But clouds hugged the ground there and rain came down in sheets.

Mrs. Johnson, who had an engagement in Washington Friday, flew to the ranch Friday night to join her husband. They are expected to return to the capital Monday night.

Press secretary George E. Reedy said Friday night that Johnson would hold a news conference next Tuesday at the White House. The 4 p.m. EDT conference will be Johnson's first since April 27 and will be available for live radio and television coverage.

Hospital, Education Fields

Welfare Chief Delighted Over Rights Compliance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Asst. Secretary of Welfare James M. Quigley said today he is encouraged about the filing of acceptable civil rights compliance statements in the hospital and education fields.

Quigley said there has been a breakthrough in both fields by institutions and states seeking to meet the 1964 Civil Rights Act provision that they end discrimination or face loss of federal funds. The former Democratic congressman from Pennsylvania is coordinating Welfare Department compliance efforts.

"We still have a lot of work to do," Quigley said.

He noted that some 235 complaints — most of them directed at Individual hospitals — have been brought to his attention.

The hospital complaints have been aimed mostly at areas served by the Atlanta regional office but have included some in the Boston, New York, Kansas City and San Francisco regional office areas.

"At this stage of the game we have probably completed 35 or 40 hospital investigations," Quigley said. "But that is just the first step. Then we have to seek compliance on a voluntary basis.

"About a dozen of these hospitals have now satisfield us with their corrective actions.

"Examples of these are the University of Mississippi Hospital, the University of Alabama Hospital, the Southeastern Alabama Hospital at Dothan, the University of Virginia Hospital, Chatham County General Hospital at Savannah, Ga., and the University of Tennessee Hospital in Knoxville.

"And, though we are satisfied, the complainant may not be, and we may have to check back. It is our responsibility, anyway, to make periodic reviews to determine that the situation is as it was when our investigation was made."

Quiglely said he regards the changes which had been made at the University of Mississippi and University of Alabama hospitals "between the time they read of the complaints in the newspapers or from the time the Civil Rights Act passed" as being "rather dramatic."

In the educational field, Quigley hailed the fact the acceptable compliance statements have been received from state educational agencies in all but two states — Alabama and Alaska. He said this means that only Alabama among the Deep South states still does not have an acceptable plan.

Commissioner of Education Francis Keppel said that for school districts to qualify for continued federal assistance they must desegregate four grades this September, and all other grades in September 1966 — or show they have a satisfactory desegregation plan.

Since Keppel issued his directive, Quigley said, "plans have been coming in at a faster rate and they will probably come in even faster."

Ashland Wins Berth In NAIA Area Playoffs

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — John Rhoads pitched brilliant one-hit baseball Friday and led Ashland College (14-6) to a 4-0 victory over Defiance for a berth in the NAIA Area 6 playoffs next week in Spring Arbor, Mich.

Rhoads pitched 8 2-3 innings without giving up a hit or a walk—Defiance's only base-runner resulting from a hit batsman. He then yielded the one hit and walked two men before a strikeout to end the game.

While some insects are helpful to mankind, the great majority of them are harmful. For one thing, they devour and destroy about one-tenth of all the crops raised on American farms.

Joe Kirkwood Holds Lead In Festival Open

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The major casualties in the Speedway Festival Open Golf Tournament, moved this year from the speedway course to longer and trickier Greentree Country Club, do not include old man par or Joe Kirkwood Jr., the leader at the halfway mark with a 139.

Only 15 players including Kirkwood, bettered Greentree's 71-71—142 par for 36 holes, two others matched it. Nobody beat par by more than three strokes, for either 18 or 36 holes, and only three players put together two subpar rounds.

Only Kirkwood could go three under par for the 36 holes Thursday and Friday, and he needed the two days to get that edge with 69-70—139.

Tommy Bolt went three under Thursday with a 68, but he slipped to 73 Friday and was in a nine-way tie for seventh place.

Lionel Hebert got the only 68 Friday. Added to his opening 72, it gave him 140 and a five-way tie for second.

Application Forms Offered In Red Cross Swim Classes

Application forms for the annual summer swimming classes of the East Liverpool Area Red Cross Chapter are available at the chapter's office in the Mary Patterson Memorial, Donald Ross, director of the water safety program, has announced.

Because only 400 can be registered for each session, Ross urged those intending to enroll to obtain applications as soon as possible.

The response for water safety aides has been most gratifying, Ross said, but additional aides are needed.

Those signing to take training June 14-18, are Janet Andrews, Betty Chetwyn, Keith Steiner, Andy Hughes, Linda Porter, Myra Nottingham, Joe Walters, Susie and Sandy Hargraves, Greg Pierce, Sue Stone, Linda Gilbert, Stephen Picken, Mrs. Eunice Petkovich, Mrs. Eleanor Jolly, Mrs. Marwynne Strafy, Mrs. Kathleen Hissom of East Liverpool and Sharon Penn of Wellsville.

After the week of training, the water safety aides will assist with the teaching of swimming and life saving classes. Ross asks that anyone who has completed the Senior or Junior Life Saving course, who is 14 or over, and who would be willing to help, to call the Red Cross office.

Mrs. Ralph Musuraca has been named as chairman of the Swimmer Aide Committee. She is recruiting women who will help during the program with clerical work and other duties around the pool.

The first swimming session will be from June 21 to July 9; the second from July 12 to July 30. During each three-week session, classes will be in beginner, advanced beginner, intermediate, swimmer and advanced swimmer courses for both children and adults. Senior and junior life saving courses also will be given.

Backing Auto Hits Another

A teen-age driver was cited by police Friday night after his backing auto struck a parked car on Ravine St. and damaged property at a nearby home.

Eugene A. Wright, 19, whose addresses were listed by police as 1325 Main St., Wellsville, or Beaver Falls, was accused of improper backing. He posted a $32.50 bond for a hearing in Municipal Court.

Wright told officers he backed his convertible to look into a pet store in the 200 block of Ravine St. and failed to see the parked 1955 auto of E. Irene Dopler, 810 St. George St.

Police said a spruce tree, cactus plant and flags at the home of Henry Zipperian, 213 Ravine St., also were damaged in the mishap.

Buswell had stopped on Elizabeth St. when his 1965 sedan was hit in the rear by a car operated by Nathaniel Hayes, 47, of 1173 Harker Ave., who was driving a 1963 sedan owned by Mike Turk, Inc. The mishap was timed at 2:40 p. m.

Hayes told police he rounded a bend and saw Buswell's halted car and applied his brakes, but skidded into the rear end of the other auto.

A mishap at 4:08 p. m. at E. 5th and Market Sts. involved cars operated by Emma Lou Freeman, 32, of 744 Sophia St. and Lawrence Gill, 19, of R. D. 1.

Reporting the accident to police headquarters, Gill said his foot slipped off the brake into the gas pedal and his car struck the rear of the Freeman auto, which was halted at the intersection.

Plenty Of Troubles

Johnson, Home In Texas, Plagued By Bad Weather

Johnson, who flew to the ranch Thursday night for the Memorial Day weekend, had plenty of weather troubles Friday. Because of torrential rains and a low ceiling, the President had to fly by helicopter to and from Baylor University commencement exercises in Waco, 120 miles northeast of here. He had hoped to make the trip in his Air Force Jetstar transport.

The weather also altered Johnson's plans for delivering the Baylor commencement address. He wanted to use a teleprompter for the speech, broadcast nationally by television and radio networks, but the necessary equipment got hung up in the clouds aboard a chartered airliner bringing the White House press corps to Waco.

Because of rains that caused flash floods in the area, the plane was able to land only after Johnson had arrived at the ceremony. He read a typed copy of the speech.

Johnson's first stab at relaxation during the weekend also was affected by the weather. After the Baylor event, he flew to Lyndon B. Johnson Lake — formerly Ganiter Shoals Lake — north of here for an outing. But clouds hugged the ground there and rain came down in sheets.

Mrs. Johnson, who had an engagement in Washington Friday, flew to the ranch Friday night to join her husband. They are expected to return to the capital Monday night.

Press secretary George E. Reedy said Friday night that Johnson would hold a news conference next Tuesday at the White House. The 4 p.m. EDT conference will be Johnson's first since April 27 and will be available for live radio and television coverage.

Hospital, Education Fields

Welfare Chief Delighted Over Rights Compliance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Asst. Secretary of Welfare James M. Quigley said today he is encouraged about the filing of acceptable civil rights compliance statements in the hospital and education fields.

Quigley said there has been a breakthrough in both fields by institutions and states seeking to meet the 1964 Civil Rights Act provision that they end discrimination or face loss of federal funds. The former Democratic congressman from Pennsylvania is coordinating Welfare Department compliance efforts.

"We still have a lot of work to do," Quigley said.

He noted that some 235 complaints — most of them directed at Individual hospitals — have been brought to his attention.

The hospital complaints have been aimed mostly at areas served by the Atlanta regional office but have included some in the Boston, New York, Kansas City and San Francisco regional office areas.

"At this stage of the game we have probably completed 35 or 40 hospital investigations," Quigley said. "But that is just the first step. Then we have to seek compliance on a voluntary basis.

"About a dozen of these hospitals have now satisfield us with their corrective actions.

"Examples of these are the University of Mississippi Hospital, the University of Alabama Hospital, the Southeastern Alabama Hospital at Dothan, the University of Virginia Hospital, Chatham County General Hospital at Savannah, Ga., and the University of Tennessee Hospital in Knoxville.

"And, though we are satisfied, the complainant may not be, and we may have to check back. It is our responsibility, anyway, to make periodic reviews to determine that the situation is as it was when our investigation was made."

Quigley said he regards the changes which had been made at the University of Mississippi and University of Alabama hospitals "between the time they read of the complaints in the newspapers or from the time the Civil Rights Act passed" as being "rather dramatic."

In the educational field, Quigley hailed the fact the acceptable compliance statements have been received from state educational agencies in all but two states — Alabama and Alaska. He said this means that only Alabama among the Deep South states still does not have an acceptable plan.

Commissioner of Education Francis Keppel said that for school districts to qualify for continued federal assistance they must desegregate four grades this September, and all other grades in September 1966 — or show they have a satisfactory desegregation plan.

Since Keppel issued his directive, Quigley said, "plans have been coming in at a faster rate and they will probably come in even faster."

Pittsburgh Bank Teller Assists In Nabbing Robber

PITTSBURGH — Hot pursuit on a bicycle by a daring bank teller led to the arrest Friday afternoon of a suspect shortly after the University Branch of the Mellon National Bank and Trust Co. in Oakland had been held up and robbed of $4,300.

Donald H. Brown, 27, chief teller at the bank, supplied police with directions who arrested Henry Criswell, 23, as the suspect and said he would be charged with armed robbery of the bank.

Criswell was nabbed about five blocks from the scene of the holdup.

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I remove iodine stains from fabrics?

A.—Try taking finely shaved white soap, moistening with water, spreading this over the stain, and allowing to remain for a few hours.

A.—You can clean and polish a mirror all at the same time by adding a little starch to your water. Or, rub a little alcohol or spirits of camphor on the mirror to brighten it. Never remove paint from a mirror with a razor blade, as this could scratch the glass. Instead, wash the paint off with a solution of hot vinegar.

Q.—Is it possible to paint asbestos-covered heating pipes without the asbestos soaking up all your paint?

A.—Yes, if you'll size the asbestos first. You can make a good sizing for this job by soaking ½-pound of sizing glue in a gallon of water overnight, then melting it over a fire. When the glue has melted, stir in about two cupfuls of flour for each gallon of glue to form a paste, then apply to the asbestos with a brush. After about 48 hours, your pipes can be nicely painted.

Q.—How can I fill up small, but deep, nail holes in a plastered wall?

A.—By mixing up a little talcum powder or cornstarch with a few drops of water, forcing this into the holes, then smoothing off with your fingers around the edges.

Q. — How can I make a gelatin dessert quickly when time is at a premium?

A. — Mix the gelatin with only enough hot water to dissolve it, then use ice water for the remaining amount of liquid. The gelatin will set in just a few minutes. Add fruit if you wish, but be sure it is ice cold.

Junior Editors Quiz on SLEEP

QUESTION: We all sleep — but why?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Sleep is a way in which nature insures that our bodies will have a chance to replenish themselves. While awake, a special group of cells in the brain directs us in our conscious activity. But there is another part of the brain, lower down, which can turn on or shut off the activity of the upper cells. This wise lower brain, symbolized in our picture as the little cell man, seems to know when the conscious parts needs to be shut off, so it makes us drowsy and we tumble into bed. While sleeping, we use very little energy. This allows the nerve cells to build up supplies of the chemicals they need to get us going when we wake up. We all need sleep; when young, children should have ten hours rest, when older, nine or more. Adolescents need from eight to nine hours. Experts say it doesn't matter what position we take when we first go to sleep. Without knowing that we are doing so, we change our position several times during the night. This gives a chance for all the muscles to relax. It is important that a sleeping person be protected from cold, because, during sleep, the body produces less heat than when awake.

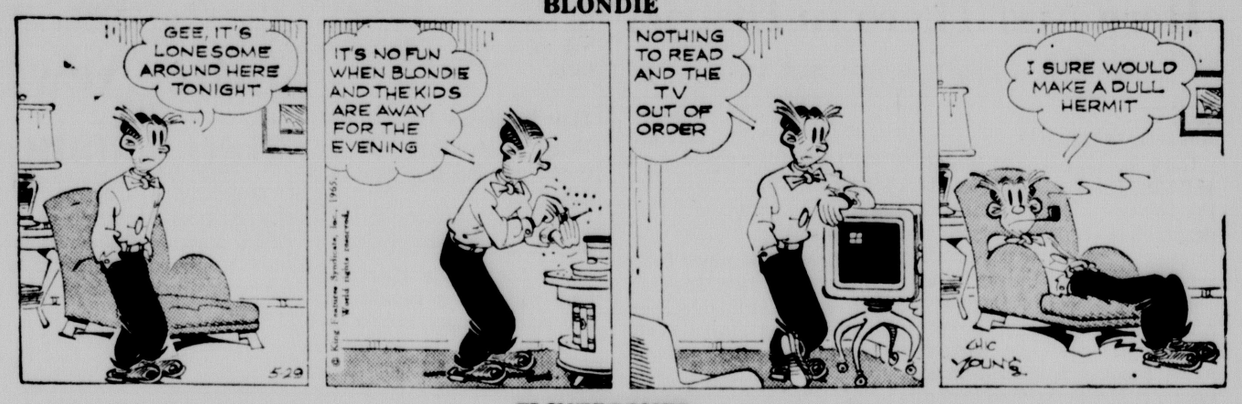

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Watch your behavior throughout a day. A person who hasn't had enough sleep is likely to be grumpy and cross. If you find yourself that way, get more sleep!

★ ★ ★

Moscow, Peking 'Snapping'

Bitter New Exchange Hits Red Alliance On Viet Nam

MOSCOW (AP) — The fragile Soviet-Chinese alliance on Viet Nam appeared today to have been shattered by a bitter new exchange between Moscow and Peking.

Observers here believed the dispute between the two Communist powers could have a profound long-range effect on the future of the war in Southeast Asia.

The Soviet Union implied on Thursday that the Chinese were seeking to touch off a world war over Viet Nam in hopes this would unite the Communist bloc.

The Kremlin's official policy mouthpiece, Pravda, chided the Chinese. It said that true Communists should spend their time "not in waiting for a world war to break out, but in averting a chain of events that is liable to trigger it off."

Peking snapped back Friday with an angry charge that the Russians were "abetting the U.S. imperialist plot of peace negotiations and trying to subordinate the Viet Nam question to their general line of peaceful coexistence and soviet-U.S. cooperation to extinguish the Vietnamese people's revolutionary struggle."

The Chinese attack was distributed by the official New China News Agency. Its publication the day after the Pravda article seemed clearly intended as a reply to Moscow's rebuke.

The stinging Soviet-Chinese exchange came only three months after Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin announced during his visit to Asia that "imperialist provocations" in Viet Nam had brought the Soviet Union and China together in determination "to curb the aggressors."

Now that their underlying differences over Viet Nam have been aired publicly the two Communist rivals may be expected to continue the polemic openly, observers believed.

A Hungarian Politburo official hinted earlier this week that if agreement is reached on Viet Nam policy, the Russians and their supporters might renew the call for a showdown conference of world Communist parties which was shelved earlier this year because of China's refusal to attend.

Whatever the disruptive effects of the latest Soviet-Chinese argument on the rest of the Communist movement, observers doubted the Russians would back out of their pledges of military aid to North Viet Nam.

It was believed the Russians would continue the arms deliveries — possibly including Soviet antiaircraft missiles.

Authority Indicates Need Of Additional Housing Data

The Ohio Housing Authority indicated at a meeting Friday afternoon in Columbus that it will need additional information before it can act on a resolution for establishment of a low-cost housing program for most of Columbiana County.

Mayor Merrill D. Hall of East Liverpool and Ollie Campbell, vice president of the local Senior Citizens, were the only county representatives attending the meeting.

They were accompanied by Paul Durbak, director of the Steubenville Metropolitan Housing Authority, who has been serving as an adviser to county communities seeking to establish a similar program.

The state agency indicated it will need information on planning programs including housing and zoning and facts concerning sanitary and health conditions in areas where there is low - income housing, Mayor Hall said.

The housing authority said sanitary and health conditions must show a definite need for low - income housing rather than a financial need alone.

No definite date was set for new consideration of the resolution enacted by county commissioners asking the state agency to create a Metropolitan Housing Authority covering all of Columbiana County except Wayne Township.

The authority meets only when it has applications to consider, Mayor Hall was informed.

"White will open his cabin hatch, stand, and then — as the spacecraft begins its first pass over the United States — will float free at the end of a golden umbilical cord.

Using a Buck Rogers-like spacegun that fires jets of oxygen, White will move to within 20 feet of the slowly tumbling rocket, but no closer.

Later, after White has returned to the spacecraft, the hatch has been closed, and the cabin repressurized — at the beginning of the fifth orbit — McDivitt will maneuver from about 16 miles away to within 10 feet of the booster.

Then White and McDivitt will get on with the mission's primary objectives — to test the performance of the spacecraft during a long flight, and to measure the effects of prolonged exposure to weightlessness on the two-man crew. The flight of 97 hours, 50 minutes will be the longest yet for the United States.

Soviet cosmonaut Alexei Leonov was the first human to venture into space. He floated at the end of a tether without any means of propulsion last March 18.

Dr. Charles Barry, the astronauts' physician, said he was not worried about anything going wrong during White's space walk that would shorten the flight and thwart the medical objectives.

"I feel this is a safe procedure," he said. "The crew members are completely familiar with the equipment. They are well trained and perfectly ready for this mission."

Dr. Robert Gilruth, director of the Manned Space Center, said the new plans had not been motiviated by any desire to stage propaganda stunts but that each was in line with the objectives of the Gemini program.

"We know there are risks with all these flights," he said. "There is the risk of getting into orbit and of returning from orbit. But once we make orbit, we feel we should do everything we can do and are prepared to do before we come back down."

bringing the total recalled to 3,300. About 600 U.S. Marines left for home Thursday.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk said in a television and radio interview Friday night that the United States would be prepared to remove its force "just as rapidly as he (Alvim) feels it is militarily prudent and safe to do so."

But, he said, "some American troops are likely to stay on in the Dominican Republic for weeks or months."

Rusk added that some Communists are still active in the rebel-held area of downtown Santo Domingo.

Johnson, in a speech at Waco, Tex., also proposed the creation of new inter-American peacekeeping machinery to protect the hemisphere from the "forces of slavery and subversion."

The suggestion quickly received support from Brazilian foreign minister Vasco Leitao Da Cunha. He told a reporter in Washington that the President's proposal "will certainly find a warm response in those who are conscious of the perils of subversive action in our continent."

The OAS began paying government employes of any political affiliation with the $6 million in U.S. funds made available Thursday.

Reports from Washington said the United States has also sent more than $4 million worth of food to the Dominican Republic since the revolt broke out April 24, bringing the amount of U.S. aid to more than $10 million.

A U.N. fact finding team, which made a tour of the northern Dominican Republic, said Friday it found people there overwhelmingly opposed to Imbert's military-civilian junta.

A U.N. spokesman said Dominicans had told the that the army and police were oppressive and that 5,000 to 6,000 persons had been jailed since the revolt began.
